OUR PARIS CORRESPONDENCE.

The War-Vessels in Process of Construction at Bordeaux—One of Them Nearly Ready for Launching—Are They for the Rebels?—The Rappahannock at Calais—Protest by Mr. Dayton Against Her Being Fitted Out—Lawsuit Concerning the Confederate Fifteen Million Loan.

PARIS, Tuesday, Dec. 15, 1863.

The position of affairs at present in regard to Confederate ships in French ports is, as I understand it, this: When the American Minister had obtained and presented to the French Government positive proofs that the six vessels being built by Messrs. ARMAN & VORUZ for the Emperor of China were in fact for the Confederates, the authorization for the building of the ships was withdrawn, and the labor on them discontinued. Since then the labor on one or more of these vessels has been resumed, and when the American Minister demanded explanations, it was replied that one or more of the vessels had been sold by M. ARMAN to the Prussian Government, and that it was on this vessel, or these vessels only, that work had been resumed. When it was represented to the Government that the sale to the Prussian Minister might be a fictitious one, and that positive proof of such a sale ought to be and might easily be furnished, it was replied that such proof had been promised, and would in due time be furnished. There the matter rests for the present.

As for the work on the steamers, a friend, an American gentleman residing at Bordeaux, who watches daily the movements in regard to these vessels, writes me that so far as he can see, only one vessel is being completed, but on this vessel a very large number of hands are now employed, and the vessel is about ready to launch. A few days ago he observed port-holes in the vessel, and subsequently he found these holes closed and completely disguised—a circumstance which recalls that stipulation of the contract which requires that the vessels, although built to carry the mail between Shanghai and San Francisco, shall yet be so built as to be easily convertible into vessels of war.

As regards the Rappahannock, the Confederate vessel which lately escaped from an English port, and took refuge in the port of Calais in France, the following are the facts in regard to her. She escaped, as you already know, only a few hours before an order arrived from the Admiralty to retain her, and the person having her in charge evidently knew that the order to seize had been issued; for when the vessel arrived at Calais, her deck was in the utmost confusion—nothing was finished, nothing was in its place, and the wonder was how, in such a plight, she had managed to cross safely the boisterous channel. Since her arrival in the port of Calais, a new question in the neutrality law has arisen and been discussed between the American Minister and the French Government. The vessel, while lying in a French port, and to which port she did not fly from stress of weather, but in order to finish her equipment, has attempted to procure these equipments from England and to put them in their place on board the ship. One day last week a hundred and forty boxes containing equipments of all kinds, from cordages down to kitchen utensils, were sent from England to a fictitious address at Calais, destined for the Rappahannock. Thus, although the Confederate agents avoid bringing what they need in the French ports, they make use of that port to finish their vessels, and against this evident violation of neutrality law Mr. DAYTON has energetically protested. The French Foreign Secretary, I believe, has admitted the point of a violation, but as the case was a new one, he demanded time to confer with the Minister of Marine.

In all these transactions in regard to Confederate vessels, the American Minister has judiciously put everything into writing, and he has declared to the French Government that it is as much to their interest as to the interest of the Government of the United States that no unjust precedents should now be established, for that the decisions in every one of these cases should be held as precedents for future action. So that there is not much danger but that the French Government will do its duty in the matter. I may add that I have reason to know that the Government is sorely vexed over these constant discussions on the neutrality laws, and would be glad to be delivered from them.

After the decision in the Alexandra case last Winter, the Confederates supposed that they were going to be able to get out any number of ships, and it was in fact resolved on at Richmond to obtain a large fleet, not only as men-of-war but as privateers. Since then naval officers have been constantly filtering through the blockade to come and take charge of these vessels, until now we have quite a large number of them at Paris, and there are no doubt as many more in England.

The commission agents in London and Paris who put Mr. MCRAE in relation with M. ERLANGER, and thus enabled the Confederate Government to negotiate the Fifteen Million Loan, have sued the Confederate agent for a larger commission than the agent is willing to pay. The suit is instituted at London, although Messrs. MCRAE and ERLANGER both reside at Paris, because at Paris the law only allows a fixed sum in the matter of commissions. The agents at London who put the Confederates in relation with the house of ERLANGER are Messrs. VALENTINE & Co., an American house; and at Paris, Messrs. ARNOLD & Co., an English house.

One of the Confederate organs at Paris which does not seem to be influenced by the disclosures contained in the letters found on the Robert E. Lee, has made the discovery that Gen. BRAGG, when the battle of Mission Ridge was pushed on him, was on his way to join and relieve LONGSTREET, that the battle at best was only an extensive skirmish, and that the Federals had been so punished that they would not probably be able to prevent BRAGG from executing his original design of joining LONGSTREET! It is thus that so important an organ of public opinion as the France writes cotemporaneous history.

About $7,000 have been collected lately at Paris for the Sanitary Commission, and the sum will be largely increased. Two weeks hence a concert will be given in the Chapel of the Rue de Berry in aid of this fund, at which the performers will be all amateurs and Americans, and none the less superior artists on that account.

A good story comes to me from London, in connection with Mr. BEECHER'S great meeting at Exeter Hall. A large manufacturing house, FAUCET, PRESTON & CO., sent to that meeting two hundred of their men, to help in the wotk of breaking up, or at least disturbing the meeting, and when one of the firm was asked the other day by a Northern gentlemen, on what ground he could induce his ignorant men to engage in such a business, he replied, "They did it because the Yankees used to impress British seamen at Charleston!"

NEWS BY THE ADRIATIC.

GREAT BRITAIN.

The Government employes at Sheerness who assisted in fitting out the Rappahannock for the rebels, have been discharged for violation of the neutrality law.

The names of persons serving on any rebel vessel who belonged to the Naval Reserve, are ordered to be stricken from the list, to forfeit all privileges, and not to be allowed to reënter the service.

The steamer Vanderbilt returned to Cape Town, remained there until Oct. 27, and then visited Penguin Islands, the rendezvous of the Confederates, where she seized the British bark Saxon, in British waters, it is said, on supposition that she was laden with the cargo of the Federal ship Conrad. The Saxon was sent to New-York with a prize crew. It is reported that the mate of the Saxon was shot by the Federal officers.

[The arrival of the Saxon at this port in charge of a prize crew was announced some days since.—ED. TIMES.]

It is stated that the rebel Government have made due provision for the payment of the £75,000 sterling Cotton Loan Bonds to be drawn for in March.

The rebel financial European agent writes to the London Morning Herald to show that the Richmond authorities are taking measures to support their credit, and in answer to the complaint that cotton is purchasable cheaper with sterling than with bonds of the loan, Mr. MCRAE says: "The Richmond authorities contemplate, and will probably prohibit the exportation of cotton, except such as is pledged by its own obligations."

The message of JEFFERSON DAVIS was generally regarded as showing no signs of yielding on the part of the South.

The London Army and Navy Gazette regards Gen. LEE'S failure to follow Gen. MEADE in his retreat as a decisive proof of the weakness of the South, and in regard to Gen. MEADE'S futile advance, it says: "With good generalship Richmond might have been the prize."

It is asserted that the capture of the brig Dashing Wave, off the Mexican coast, by a Federal cruiser, was wholly unjustifiable, she being a regular Liverpool and Mexican trader, employed in her ordinary commerce.

The London Morning Herald repeats the rumor that one of the principal Secretaries of State has resigned. Ill-health is stated to be the cause. It is supposed to be the Duke of Newcastle.

The London Daily News talks of a probable general election within six months.

The protracted Court-martial in the case of Col. CRAWLEY had closed. The decision is reserved. The Colonel made a voluminous and able defence.

FRANCE.

The Emperor NAPOLEON had made a brief and pacific speech in response to the address of the Senate.

The paragraph in the address relative to Mexico met with some objections, but it was finally adopted, after the Ministerial statement that the Government was approaching the establishment of a stable Government in Mexico at a firm, resolute and rapid pace.

The paragraph relative to Poland and the European Congress was debated at length, and produced a strong Anti-Russian sentiment and counter-protests against going to war for the Poles.

It is stated that the new French loan is to be raised by public subscription.

It is stated that M. SUPERVILLE, the new rebel Envoy to France, has a mission to notify the French Government of the recognition by the Confederate Government of the Empire of Mexico, and also to try and persuade the Emperor NAPOLEON to recognize the South in return for such acknowledgment.

THE HOLSTEIN QUESTION.

The Holstein question remains without change.

It was supposed that Denmark would not forcibly oppose the Federal Execution. It is, in fact, stated that the Danish troops will be withdrawn from Holstein, but that the King of Denmark will not acknowledge the Federal Execution.

PRUSSIA.

The Prussian Chambers, in spite of the ministerial explanations, voted, by two to one, the address to the King refusing the loan.

AUSTRIA.

The Austrian ministerial crisis has terminated, and M. VON SCHMERLING is continued in the Cabinet.

LONDON, Tuesday, Dec. 22.

LONDON MONEY MARKET.—Funds were favorably affected by a large recovery of bullion in the Bank.

The French Senate has finally adopted the address in its entirety.

The Liverpool Post gives prominence to the following paragraph:

"We consider ourselves in a position to state that Lord LYONS, in a dispatch to Earl RUSSELL from Washington, announces that the war will be terminated within the next three months. The Confederates being in the greatest extremities, will have speedily to propose an armistice. In our informant we have the fullest possible confidence. It is possible that LINCOLN'S Proclamation has reference to the facts on which Lord LYONS grounded his conclusion."

The synopsis of LINCOLN'S Message and Proclamation received per Arabia via Halifax attracted general comment. The London Times looks upon the message as warlike, and says the effect of the whole document, amnesty included, resembles that of the last battle. The offer of peace is on terms that can not be accepted. The whole question still depends on the fortune of war. It may be gratifying to the North to be formally assured that the Government is strong and successful enough to offer an amnesty. But it is evident that LINCOLN anticipates no pacific result; nor does the Secretary of the Treasury, who looks forward still to two years' war expenditures. Commercial circles in New-York appear to share his misgivings, the premium on gold having risen under the Message.

The Daily News awaits the arrival of the full Message before giving an opinion.

The Morning Post thinks LINCOLN must be "joking," and says he should have remembered that a Confederate army was encamped within a hundred miles of Washington, before he ventured to dictate such terms of amnesty.

The Morning Herald ridicules the Proclamation, denounces the vindictive spirit of the proffered amnesty which, it says, offers nothing which could be withheld if the last Southern town had been taken and the last Southern regiment cut to pieces. The real object is to establish a pseudo State Government wherever secure foothold can be found.

The Morning Star applauds the honesty of LINCOLN, rejoices at his determination to put down Slavery, and says his peace overtures to the South are large and liberal.

It is stated that the British Admiralty sent an agent to America some time ago to inspect and report upon the guns in use there.

Three blocks of Manchester warehouses in Woodstreet, London, were burned to the ground. Loss, £150,000 sterling.

JOHN BRIGHT, in a letter to the Marquis of Hartington, convicts that noble of having held up the prosperity of the North far above anything advanced by him or SEWARD. (Sic.)

THE HOLSTEIN QUESTION.

It continued to be asserted that Denmark would not oppose the Federal execution, but would evacuate Holstein.

It was reported that the Federal Commissioner in Holstein had received instructions to administer existing laws without prejudice to the rights of the Sovereign and with as little inconvenience to the inhabitants as possible.

Austrian troops continued to arrive in Hamburg.

A public meeting of Norwegians was called for the purpose of voting an address to the King, stating that Sweden and Norway are bound to assist Denmark in defending the frontiers; that the Scandinavian interests are endangered, and that the people are ready to bear whatever burdens may be imposed for these purposes.

The Stockholm and Gottenburg bankers had subscribed a loan to the Swedish Government of three millions rix dollars.

FRANCE.

It was reported that France, in response to the Russian reply relative to the Congress, had proposed a Conference of Ministers, as preliminary to the meeting of the Sovereigns.

Another statement is that France, in a note to the Swiss Government, says the desired programme will be drawn, and subsequently communicated to different Governments.

POLAND.

Telegrams continued to report engagements and insurgent successes.

Three insurgent leaders had been hung at Lizzia.

By the Hammonia and the City of Manchester

The steamer Hammonia, from Southampton Dec. 16, arrived here yesterday morning, and the Inman steamer City of Manchester, from Liverpool at noon of the same day, and Queenstown on the 17th, arrived last evening. Our files are one day later than those brought by the Olympus.

Mr. SUPERVILLE, the new rebel ambassador, whose arrival at Paris by the St. Nazaire has already been noticed, was taken from Matamoras to Vera Cruz on board a French war-vessel which was placed at his disposal.

The rebel steamer Rappahannock was still at Calais, completing her repairs.

REGULATIONS GOVERNING SHIPS-OF-WAR AND PRIVATEERS AT THE BAHAMAS.

From the London Gazette of Tuesday.

FOREIGN OFFICE, Dec. 15.

Copies of a letter from Lord RUSSELL to the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, and of a dispatch from the Duke of Newcastle to the Governor of the Bahamas:

FOREIGN OFFICE, Jan. 31, 1868.

MY LORDS: Her Majesty being fully determined to observe the duties of neutrality during the existing hostilities between the United States and the States calling themselves "the Confederate States of America," and being, moreover, resolved to prevent, as far as possible, the use of Her Majesty's harbors, ports, and coasts, and the waters within Her Majesty's territorial jurisdiction, in aid of the warlike purposes of either belligerent, has commanded me to communicate to your Lordships, for your guidance, the following rules which are to be treated and enforced as Her Majesty's orders and directions.

Her Majesty is pleased further to command that these rules shall be put in force in the United Kingdom and in the Channel Islands on and after Thursday, the 6th day of February next, and in Her Majesty's territories and possessions beyond the seas six days after the day when the Governor or other chief authority of each of such territories or possessions respectively shall have notified and published the same, stating in such notification that the said rules are to be obeyed by all persons within the same territories and possessions.

1. During the continuance of the present hostilities between the Government of the United States of North America and the States calling themselves "the Confederate States of America," or until Her Majesty shall otherwise order, no ship of war or privateer belonging to either of the belligerents shall be permitted to enter or remain in the port of Nassau, or in any other port, roadstead, or waters of the Bahama Islands, except by special leave of the Lieutenant-Governor of the Bahama Islands, or in case of stress of weather. If any such vessel should enter any such port, roadstead, or waters, by special leave, or under stress of weather, the authorities of the place shall require her to put to sea as soon as possible, without permitting her to take in any supplies beyond what may be necessary for her immediate use.

If, at the time when this order is first notified in the Bahama Islands, there shall be any such vessel already within any port, roadstead or waters of those islands, the Lieutenant-Governor shall give notice to such vessel to depart, and shall require her to put to sea within such time as he shall, under the circumstances, consider proper and reasonable. If there shall then be ships-of-war or privateers belonging to both the said belligerents within the territorial jurisdiction of Her Majesty, in or near the same port, roadstead or waters, the Lieutenant-Governor shall fix the order of time in which such vessels shall depart. No such vessel of either belligerent shall be permitted to put to sea until after the expiration of at least twenty-four hours from the time when the last preceding vessel of the other belligerent, (whether the same shall be a ship-of-war, or privateer, or merchant ship,) which shall have left the same port, roadstead, or waters, or waters adjacent thereto, shall have passed beyond the territorial jurisdiction of Her Majesty.

II. During the continuance of the present hostilities between the Government of the United States of North America and the States calling themselves "the Confederate States of America," all ships of war and privateers of either belligerents are prohibited from making use of any port or roadstead in the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, or in the Channel Islands, or in any of Her Majesty's Colonies or foreign possessions or dependencies, or in any waters subject to the territorial jurisdiction of the British Crown, as a station or place of resort for any warlike purpose, or for the purpose of obtaining any facilities of warlike equipments; and no ship-of-war or privateer of either belligerents shall hereafter be permitted to sail out of or leave any port, roadstead or waters, subject to British jurisdiction, from which any vessel of the other belligerent (whether the same shall be a ship-of-war, a privateer or a merchant-ship) shall have previously departed, until after the expiration of at least twenty-four hours from the departure of such last-mentioned vessel beyond the territorial jurisdiction of Her Majesty.

3. If any ship-of-war or privateer of either belligerent shall, after the time when this order shall be first notified and put in force in the United Kingdom and in the Channel Islands, and in the several colinies and foreign possessions and dependencies of Her Majesty respectively, enter any port, roadstead, or water belonging to Her Majesty, either in the United Kingdom, or in the Channel Islands, or in any of Her Majesty's colonies or foreign possessions or dependencies, such vessel shall be required to depart and to put to sea within twenty-four hours after her entrance into such port, roadstead, or water, except in case of stress of weather, or of her requiring provisions or things necessary for the subsistence of her crew, or repairs in; either of which came the authorities of the port, or of the nearest port, (as the case may be,) shall require her to put to sea as soon as possible after the expiration of such period of 24 hours, without permitting her to take in supplies, beyond what may be necessary for her immediate use; and no such vessel, which may have been allowed to remain within British waters for the purpose of repair, shall continue in any such port, roadstead or waters, for a longer period than 24 hours after her necessary repairs shall have been completed; provided, nevertheless, that in all cases in which there shall be any vessels (whether ships of war, privateers, or merchant ships) of both the said belligerent parties in the same port, roadstead, or waters within the territorial jurisdiction of Her Majesty, there shall be an interval of not less than 24 hours between the departure therefrom of any such vessel (whether a ship-of-war, a privateer, or a merchant-ship) of the one belligerent and the subsequent departure therefrom of any ship-of-war or privateer of the other belligerent; and the times hereby limited for the departure of such ships-of-war and privateers respectively shall always, in case of necessity, be extended so far as may be requisite for giving effect to this proviso, but not further or otherwise.

4. No ship of-war or privateer of either belligerent shall hereafter be permitted, while in any port, roadstead, or waters subject to the territorial jurisdiction of Her Majesty, to take in any supplies, except provisions and such other things as may be requisite for the subsistence of her crew, and except so much coal only as may be sufficient to carry such vessel to the nearest port of her own country, or to some nearer destination; and no coal shall be again supplied to any such ship-of-war or privateer, in the same or any other port, roadstead or waters subject to the territorial jurisdiction of Her Majesty, without special permission, until after the expiration of three months from the time when such coal may have been last supplied to her within British waters as aforesaid.

I have, &c., RUSSELL.

NOTE.—A similar letter has been addressed to the Secretaries of State for the Home, Colonial, War and India Departments, and to the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury.

The following document, explanatory of regulations previously made, has just been published:

DOWNING-STREET, Oct. 6, 1863.

SIR: Doubts having been expressed as to whether, under the regulations of the 31st of January, 1862, which were embodied in a proclamation issued by you on the 11th of March following, it is required that the commander of a belligerent ship-of-war or privateer should obtain the permission of the local authorities before entering the ports, roadsteads, or waters of the Bahamas out-islands, when the Governor is not there present, I am to acquaint you that Earl RUSSELL has taken Her Majesty's pleasure thereupon, and you are to understand that at the ports of the out-islands, as at Nassau, the special leave of the Governor himself is required (unless in stress of weather) by any belligerent vessel desiring to enter, with this exception only, that in cases of grave emergency and real necessity and distress, such as a sailing vessel being dismasted, or accident happening to the machinery of a steam vessel, the vessel may enter the ports, roadsteads, or waters on obtaining leave from a resident officer, to whom the Governor shall have delegated his authority in that behalf.

With a view to give effect to Her Majesty's intentions, you will be pleased to convey to the officers in the out-islands, to whom it may best be confided, the authority in question, taking care to communicate to them copies of the regulations of the 31st of January, 1862, and calling their especial attention to the limits of the authority delegated, and to that clause of the regulations of the 31st of January, 1862, in which it is directed that vessels entering under stress of weather, or by special leave, shall be required to put to sea as soon as possible.

I have, &c., NEWCASTLE.

GOV. BAYLEY, C. B., &c.

From the London Times, Dec. 16.

In making these very stringent rules the Government declares its resolution that this country shall not be brought into a quarrel by the dangerous geographical position of a British colony. Another course might have been adopted, and the ships of war and privateers of the two parties allowed to use Nassau and the other ports on the terms granted them elsewhere. But the Queen was only exercising her undoubted authority in making a distinction, and, having regard to the facilities which these islands afford to each party for the work of mutual destruction, the decision will satisfy every intelligent person. Considering the acrimony which has been engendered among the Federals by the Southern ships-of-war and the enterprise of the blockade-runners, it is as well that precautions have been taken against the conversion of Nassau into a place of refuge for American cruisers under either flag.

THE CASE OF THE MARGARET AND JESSIE.

In the lack of anything else to grumble about, as regards our Government, the London Herald—the Tory organ—has revived the discussion on the case of the Margaret and Jessie. Some of the correspondence relative to the case is of interest. In a letter to Lord RUSSELL, dated Aug. 4, Capt. WILSON, commander of the Margaret and Jessie writes:

"I have the honor to state, in reference to the attack made on the Confederate merchant steamship Margaret and Jessie, when under my command, on the 30th of May last, close to the Island of Eleuthera, and consequently within the maritime territorial jurisdiction of Her Majesty, by an armed vessel, which I believe was the United States snip-of-war Rhode Island, that acting on behalf of Mr. JOHN B. LAFFITTE, of Nassau, N. P., the duly authorized agent of my employer, the owner of the said ship Margaret and Jessie, Mr. GEORGE A. TRENHOLM, a citizen of the Confederate States of North America, and a merchant of the City of Charleston, in the State of South Carolina, I beg leave to transmit for your Lordship's consideration the accompanying papers, setting out the case, and making reclamation against the Government of Her Britannic Majesty for the injury and outrage complained of.

The dispatches on this subject from the Governor of the Bahamas to the Duke of Newcastle having been delivered at the Colonial Office on the 15th ult., His Grace has, I presume, already acquainted your Lordship with their contents.

The statements contained in those dispatches and in the papers now inclosed (the counterparts of which latter documents have been forwarded to the Duke of Mewcastle by Gov. BAYLEY) must, I think, satisfy your Lordship that the facts of the case, as regards the grave matter of violation of neutral territory, are as capable of demonstration that they leave no ground for controversy, and require but brief explanation.

It will be found on inquiry that, after a shot had sunk the Margaret and Jessie, the Federal cruiser proceeded seaward, and then anchored.

This latter circumstance places the all-important question as to the precise distance of the belligerent ship from neutral territory on the occasion referred to beyond the reach of conflicting testimony; for your Lordship will perceive, on examining the Admiralty chart of the Great Bahama Bank (No. 2,077), that there are no soundings at one mile only from that part of the coast of the Island of Eleuthera where these occurrences took place.

Her Majesty's Government ought to experience no difficulty in obtaining prompt reparation from the Government of the United States for this unlawful exercise of the rights of war within the territorial jurisdiction of a neutral State.

Mr. SEWARD, it is alleged, has already stated with reference to this case, 'that he would make inquiry, and if the facts were such as were reported, he would make full reparation.'"

Mr. HAMMOND replied as follows:

FOREIGN OFFICE, Sept. 7, 1863.

SIR: Her Majesty's Government have considered, in communication with the law officers of the Crown, Mr. TRENHOLM'S claim for damages in the case of the Margaret and Jessie, as set forth in the papers sent home by the Governor of the Bahamas, and in your letter of the 4th ult., and I am directed by Earl RUSSELL to inform you that Her Majesty's Government cannot adopt Mr. TRENHOLM'S own estimate of his loss, which he states at £69,138.

I am further to inform you, that while Her Majesty's Government are taking such steps as they deem to be required for the honor and dignity of this country, they peremptorily decline to recognize the principle of the pecuniary liability of Her Majesty's Government toward Mr. TRENHOLM, for which you appear to contend.

Mr. TRENHOLM is entitled to the same amount of protection (but no more) as would, under similar circumstances, be extended to one of Her Majesty's subjects, or to the subject of any other neutral Power, and his claim must be dealt with accordingly. I am, Sir, your obedient humble servant.

E. HAMMOND.

After acknowledging the receipt of this letter, Capt. WILSON thus replies:

"Capt. WILSON will transmit to Mr. TRENHOLM a copy of the communication Earl RUSSELL has made to him on this subject without delay.

Capt. WILSON is glad to learn that Her Majesty's Government are taking such steps in reference to this affair as they deem to be required for the honor and dignity of this country.

Capt. WILSON also notices, with much satisfaction, Earl RUSSELL'S gratifying assurance that Mr. TRENHOLM is entitled to the same amount of protection as would be extended to one of Her Majesty's subjects, for the unlawfulness of belligerent captures made within the territorial jurisdiction of a neutral State, being incontestably established on principle, usage and authority. It follows, Capt. WILSON humbly submits, that Her Majesty's Government possess the undoubted right of obtaining from the United States Government, on Mr. TRENHOLM'S behalf, such reparation as the circumstances of the case call for.'

On the 2d of October Capt. WILSON supplemented this letter, with the following communication, to Mr. HAMMOND:

SIR: I omitted to state in my letter to Earl RUSSELL of the 29th ult., with reference to his Lordship's refusal to recognize the principle of the pecuniary liability of Her Majesty's Government toward Mr. TRENHOLM, that reparation, unless I am misinformed, is only granted on the application of the neutral Government whose territory has been violated.

This rule is founded, I understand, upon the principle that the neutral State alone has been injured, and that the hostile claimant has no right to appear for the purpose of suggesting the invalidity of the capture or of demanding redress.

I will only add that, whatever the strictly legal bearings of this question may be, I confidently trust that the measures of Her Majesty's Government referred to by Earl RUSSELL as now in progress will not fail to comprise and secure an equitable adjustment of Mr. TRENHOLM'S claim. I have, &c.,

WM. WILSON.

THE PROBABLE ISSUE.

The London Times, of the 15th inst., comments as follows upon the remarkable letter from its Richmond correspondent, which we published yesterday, taken in connection with a later letter from its New-York correspondent:

"The Confederates are courageous and determined, but gloomy, anxious and careworn—all because they cannot look at paper money as it is looked at by their Northern neighbors. They have got the better basis of the two for such financial operations, but it has not answered the same purpose. In the South the artificial currency is exactly what we should expect it to be, and the South suffers accordingly. Otherwise it was never in better plight. Its stores of provisions and material have greatly increased, its imports of foreign goods are large, its military credit is high, and its spirit, says our correspondent, is unchanged. Nevertheless, he adds, 'we are on the brink of a precipice.' That precipice is financial. When a woman going to market carries her money in a great wicker basket, and can bring back in a pocket-book the slice of meat representing the produce of exchange, it is certainly clear that 'something must be done.' The Southerners have not the robust faith of the Northerners, and they must find a substitute for that valuable credulity.

It is, however, true that difficulties of this kind can never force into peace a people bent upon war, and our Northern correspondent, who has, of course, less opportunity of scrutinizing the finances of the Confederacy, reports to other considerations as suggesting a possibility of compromise or concession on the part of the South. He thinks that the guerrilla operations of the Confederates have slackened, and that this relaxation is evidence against the likelihood of such warfare after organized resistance may have ceased. On this speculation however, we may remark that the organized resistance is as yet far too strong to admit of any conjectures as to the tactics which may succeed it. The two great armies of the Confederates can absorb all the resources of the South in men and material without leaving much to spare for the operations of partisans. Our correspondent next argues from the actual condition of the Border States to the possible condition of those which originally seceded, and thinks that as assimilation is taking place in Maryland and Kentucky, it may occur also eventually in Alabama and South Carolina. But the cases are not similar. The Border States were always doubtful, and although they were more disposed to the South than the North, nobody ventured with any confidence to forecast their destination. All that is now proved is that the North is exercising the more powerful attraction—an attraction, be it remembered, exerted only through military rule. On the whole, however, we must perforce suspend our judgment on these speculations, for there is nothing in known history to give us the slightest guidance. The war is like no other war; the people are like no other people. The Americans themselves say that nobody can understand them, and our Northern correspondent seems prepared for any imaginable result, except, as he says, the surrender of the Union. But one-third of this Union did more than surrender it. It rejected the institution with the most desperate loathing, and has fought against its restoration to the death. Another third wavered on the question, and has, perhaps, not ceased wavering. That the remainder stands out for the old state of things with unexampled tenacity is true; that it gives not a sign of yielding is true also; but when we attempt to look beyond this we must agree with our Southern correspondent that all is mystery and darkness."

In its issue of the 16th the Times continues its comments upon the statements of its correspondents at the North and South, and, after considering the views of each, concludes by saying that it must perforce suspend its judgment, for there is nothing in known history to guide it to a safe conclusion. The war is like no other war, the people are like no other people—our Northern correspondent seems prepared for any imaginable result, except, as he says, the surrender of the Union; but one-third of the Union did more than surrender it, another third wavered, and has, perhaps, not ceased wavering; that the remainder stand out for the old state of things with unexampled tenacity, is true, that it gives not a sign of yielding is true also, but when we attempt to look beyond this, we must agree with our Southern correspondent, that all is mystery and darkness.

MR. COBDEN AND LORD HARTINGTON.

Lord HARTINGTON has made the following reply to the sharp note from Mr. COBDEN, which we published a few days ago:

CHATSWORTH, Dec. 14.

SIR: I have only this morning received your letter of the 9th inst., and take the earliest opportunity of expressing publicly my regret for having unintentionally attributed to you a remark in your speech at Rochdale which you did not make. Having again read the reports of your and Mr. BRIGHT'S speeches, I find that Mr. BRIGHT, at the conclusion of the passage in which he spoke of the present condition of the Government and people of the United States, made use of the following words:

"Look at their industry. Notwithstanding this terrific struggle, their agriculture, their manufactures and commerce proceed with an uninterrupted success."

The idea expressed in this passage is so exactly identical with that of Mr. SEWARD, when he said that no American citizen was poorer for the war, that, although I hasten to admit the verbal inaccuracy of the quotation, it appears to me to be an error of the most trivial nature. I said in my speech that I was uncertain whether you or Mr. BRIGHT had used the expression, and I am now extremely glad to find that you not only did not agree with Mr. SEWARD and Mr. BRIGHT, but showed in your remarks on the occasion in the strongest and most forcible terms how disastrous must be the result to the Northern States of the frightful expenditure of men and money which they are now incurring, and how certain is the collapse which must follow the hollow and fictitious state of prosperity which they are now enjoying.

I have the honor to be, &c.,

HARTINGTON.

RICHARD COBDEN, Esq., M. P.

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE N. Y. TIMES

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, Dec. 29.

THE COMING DRAFT.

The War Department has under consideration several important questions relating to the draft, which will shortly be made public. The quotas of the several States are being arranged so as to avoid difficulties in the future. Each State will be officially informed of the number of men it is expected to raise and the time fixed for the enforcement of the draft, which will not be later than the middle of January.

FROM RICHMOND.

The Richmond Examiner of the 28th contains the following interesting items:

"The three officers placed in irons at the Libby, to be held as hostages for the safety and good treatment of three of our soldiers, held in the North for the safety of the same number of Yankee officers of negro regiments, said to be in our possession, are E. E. CHASE, Captain First Rhode Island regiment, J. B. LITCHFIELD Captain Fourteenth Maine, and J. L. KENDALL, Captain First Massachusetts. The names of real officers of negro regiments now disguised at the Libby, have not yet been disclosed.

A dispatch from ROBERT L. OWEN, President of the Virginia and Tennessee Railroad, announces that the bridges destroyed have been rebuilt, track repaired, and cars running through from Lynchburgh to Bristol. Mrs. W. H. F. LEE, wife of the General of that name, now a prisoner in our hands, died in Richmond on Saturday.

THE EXCHANGE OF PRISONERS.

Maj. MULFORD, Assistant Commissioner for the exchange of prisoners, arrived here to-night from Fort Monroe in a special boat, with important dispatches to the Government from Gen. BUTLER, relative to the matter of exchanges. The rebel Commissioner, OULD, in a communication to Gen. HITCHCOCK, refuses to have further communication with Gen. BUTLER, on the ground that he has been outlawed by a proclamation of JEFF. DAVIS, and is, therefore, placed beyond the pale of military respectability. BUTLER, he says, cannot be protected even by a flag-of-truce. OULD'S letter is the result of a meeting of the rebel Cabinet held on the 25th.

THE REBEL NAVY DEPARTMENT.

Report of Secretary Mallory.

Hon. T. S. Babcock, Speaker of the House of Representatives, C. S. A.:

SIR: I have the honor to submit herewith my third annual report of the condition of this department. The operations of this branch of the Confederate service have been chiefly confined to preparations for ridding our waters of the enemy's vessels now blockading our seaports. We have also been engaged in building, arming and equipping iron-clad and other steamers for service in our rivers and inland sounds. On the Mississippi many of these vessels have done valuable service to our cause, while others not yet completed, were either captured by the enemy or burned by our officers to prevent them from falling into the hands of the United States forces. On the 1st of January some of our naval officers manned a steamer and two schooners, in which they sailed forth from the harbor of Galveston and captured the United States gunboat Harriet Lane, safely withdrawing her out of the reach of the other United States vessels then blockading that port. The Harriet Lane has since been put into complete order, and has on board a sufficient number of officers and men ready for an opportunity to distinguish themselves. Owing to the vigilance of the enemy, I have not deemed it advisable to give orders for this vessel to attempt any offensive operations. In accordance with my instructions the Confederate steamer Florida successfully ran the blockade from Mobile on the 15th of January, since which time she has been engaged in operations against the commerce of the enemy, capturing and destroying vessels and property amounting already to several millions of dollars. On the 17th of the same month, the Alabama destroyed the United States gunboat Hatteras, in the Gulf of Mexico, for which daring exploit her commander deserves the thanks of Congress. On the 31st of the same month three of our iron-clad steamers, officered and manned by some of the bravest men of our navy, succeeded in inflicting serious injury upon the blockading fleet off Charleston Harbor. Two of the enemy's vessels were disabled, and although one of them surrendered we were unable to secure the fruits of this victory, owing to the injury sustained by our own vessels, by the collision that occurred. Had the commander of this expedition been careful to strike the enemy amidships, his vessel would have remained uninjured, and our victory would have been complete. I had ordered a crew to be detached for service on the steamer Nashville, designing to use her for the purpose of harassing the enemy, while erecting batteries at the mouth of the Ogeechee River, but unfortunately, she was destroyed by the enemy before my plans were carried out. On the 16th of April, the ram Queen of the West, which we had captured from the enemy, was recaptured, and her officers and crew, numbering 120 persons, made prisoners. This occurrence was the result of carelessness on the part of the commander, who has since been cashiered, and dismissed from the service. During the months of May and June, our gunboats on the Western waters actively cooperated with our land forces, and although operating under many disadvantages, many gallant exploits were performed by their officers and crews. Owing to the evacuation of Vicksburg and the surrender of Port Hudson, I deemed it advisable to give orders to withdraw all our vessels in that region to safe and secure harbors, and cease the construction of those contracted for—the machinery for which was being transported to the several depots. Some of this machinery is now stored at various points, and as it seems unlikely to be required for service at the West, and is unsuitable for use elsewhere, I suggest that it be sold, and the proceeds be applied to other purposes. On the seas some of our small privateers have inflicted considerable injury upon the enemy's commerce. The Tacony entered the harbor of Portland, and captured the United States revenue cutter Caleb Cushing. Owing to ignorance of the harbor, our officers were unable to take the Cushing out to sea, and she was again recaptured on the 27th of June by vessels sent in pursuit. Her crew were made prisoners. During the months of July and August I sent twenty-seven commissioned officers and forty trustworthy petty officers to the British Provinces with orders to organize an expedition and cooperate with army officers in an attempt to release the Confederate prisoners confined on Johnson's Island in Lake Erie. From time to time I learned that the arrangements made were such as to insure the most complete success. A large amount of money had been expended, and just as our gallant naval officers were about to set sail on this expedition, the English authorities gave information to the enemy, and thus prevented the execution of one of the best planned enterprises of the present war. In accordance with the order of the President, early in the present year, I dispatched several agents to England and France, with orders to contract for eight iron-clad vessels, suitable for ocean service, and calculated to resist the ordinary armament of the wooden vessels of the enemy. These ships were to be provided with rams, and designed expressly to break the blockade of such of the ports as were not blockaded by the iron-clad monitors of the enemy. Five of these vessels were contracted for in England, and three in France. Due precautions were taken against conveying laws of England in the construction and equipment of these vessels. Three have been completed; but owing to the unfriendly construction of her neutrality laws, the Government of England stationed several war-vessels at the mouth of the Mersey, and prevented their departure from England. Subsequently they were seized by the British Government. Another and larger vessel has since been completed; but it is doubtful if she will be allowed to leave the shores of England, although it is believed the precautions taken are sufficient to exempt her from the fate of her consorts. The vessels being constructed in France have been subjected to so many official visitations that I have forwarded instructions to cease operations upon them, until the result of negotiations now pending shall permit our agent to resume work upon them. In this connection, it is proper for me to state, that the great revulsion in popular sentiment, both in England and France, toward the Confederate Government, has rendered our efforts to obtain supplies from those countries almost abortive. In view of all possible contingencies, I have instructed the agents of this department to wait a more favorable opportunity for carrying out the instructions previously forwarded. By the last I sent instructions that will shortly be made apparent to our enemies nearer home. I do not deem it advisable to communicate any portion of these plans to your honorable body at the present time, for reasons perfectly satisfactory to the President. Although the operations of our navy have not been extensive, I cannot overlook the services of Capt. SEMMES in the Alabama. During the year he has captured upward of thirty vessels, seventy of which were destroyed, the others being either bonded or released. One of the greatest drawbacks this officer reports having experienced is the difficulty he now has in procuring full supplies of coals. The provincial English authorities have hitherto afforded him every facility, but recently they have interpreted their neutrality laws so stringently that our war-vessels and privateers are much embarrassed in obtaining suitable supplies. I have instructed Capt. SEMMES to purchase coal from neutral shipmasters wherever he found it, and give them every necessary document to protect them against the effect such sale may have upon their vessels when they return to their several countries. By this means I anticipate a sufficient supply of coal will be obtained to enable him to continue his operations during the coming year. The other operations of this department have been chiefly confined to making such preparations for naval operations as circumstances might permit. From time to time I have caused surveys to be made upon steamers running the blockade, with a view of purchasing such as could be made available as war vessels. Several have been bought, and are now being transformed into ships-of-war. For the armament of these vessels it will be necessary that Congress should make an additional appropriation. Appropriations will also be required to conduct our naval operations during the coming year. The estimated expenditures of the department for the fiscal year ending July 1, 1864, will amount to $27,249,890, in addition to $14,024,016 remaining to the credit of this department on the Treasury. Since my last annual report, the expenditures for the navy have been $24,413,645. The business transacted during the year, in this department, has kept my very large clerical force so constantly engaged that from time to time I have ordered a number of naval officers to assist them in duties not properly devolving upon them. This course occasions so much dissatisfaction, that I must Congress will make such addition to my official staff as shall enable me to permit all our naval officers to resume their respective positions. The great disproportion of officers in our service to the seamen enrolled, is a matter requiring the legislation of Congress. The number of commanders now on active service, either at sea or on shore, remains the same as previously reported. Many of those occupying a lower grade in the service have volunteered in the army, owing to their desire to be actively employed against the enemy. I have not accepted the resignations of these gentlemen, but furnished them with temporary absences, until I can recall them for the performance of other duties. I have considered it important to keep the roll as complete as possible, therefore whenever I have been notified of the death of any naval officers serving in the army, I have appointed his successor. The total number of commissioned officers at present attached to the Confederate army is three hundred and eighty-three. The petty officers number one hundred and ninety-one, while the roll of sailors gives a return of eight hundred and seventy-seven, not including those on board of vessels now at sea, accurate rolls not having been transmitted. In conclusion, I must add my testimony to the gallantry and efficiency of our navy, who have nobly sustained our cause under many trying circumstances. The proud spirit of our officers chafes at the inaction they are compelled to endure; and I trust Congress will make provision for increasing the efficiency of this department, and permitting it to undertake more offensive against the enemy. In conclusion, I would recommend the immediate passage of an act authorizing the construction of at least six turreted iron-clads for harbor operations. The experience of the past year has demonstrated that such vessels are absolutely necessary, if we expect to break through and destroy the blockade at present established by the enemy. Attached to this communication I have the honor to submit the various reports of different commanders and officers sent upon detached duty, together with the reports of naval agents and other officers at home and abroad, who have been engaged on duty connected with this department.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

S. R. MALLORY,
Secretary of the Navy.

TUESDAY, Dec. 29—P. M.

The last advices from London of a renewed demand on the Bullion in the Bank of England, and consequent firm rates for Money, have stiffened the rates of Exchange, and increased the export demand for Gold. The price of the latter advanced at one time in the forenoon to 153 ℔ cent., and Bills on London were done as high as 167¼@167¾ ℔ cent There is, of course, under the high rates for Money quoted from London, a reasonable anxiety on the part of our Bankers and Importers, to place their cash balances at the command of their friends and correspondents on the other side. The same feeling, we understand, obtains among the Bankers and Merchants of Canada, and very considerable sums of Gold are being sent here for transmission to England; the supply of Gold and Silver in Canada being in excess of the present wants of trade. After regular 'Change hours, Gold was ¼@¾ ℔ cent. weaker, and Bills on London 167 ℔ cent.

The upward turn in speculation on the Railways at the Stock Exchange this week has added to the demand for Money from the Brokers, and as this inquiry comes at the very close of the old year, when the disposition among the Banks and Bankers to hold over large balances for the settlement of the 1st January Dividends, it is not so readily answered, even at the outside rate of 7 ℔ cent., as it probably will be after New-Year's. The speculators against the turn referred to in the Stock Market, were sellers on the Street and at the Second Board, on the calculation that Money is to remain tight for the remainder of the week, if not longer.

The receipts at the Treasury to-day for the Popular Loan fell back to $1,293. The office also received from Washington $1,000,000 Legal-Tender.

The Stock market was active at the early Board on some of the Railways, which being the favorites of the present speculation, further advanced in price. Among the chief attractions is the stock of the Chicago and Rock Island Road, which brought, at one time, as much as 121 ℔ cent. The dealings in Cleveland and Pittsburgh were also quite buoyant, and the Western list generally firm, while the New-York lines were steady. The Miscellaneous Shares were higher on Cumberland, Canton and Almaden Quicksilver. The Government Securities and State Stocks steady.

At the Second Board, as intimated above, there was some disposition on the part of sellers to put out contracts on the reported sharp Money market, but prices yielded only partially, say to the extent on Erie of ¼@½

Sic.; and 200 cases Seed Leaf, on private terms. Manufactured is in moderate request, at full prices.

CATARRH SNUFF,

A SPECIFIC FOR CATARRH AND DISEASES OF THE HEAD AND THROAT.

Like all medicines, must be used as prescribed to insure the desired effect. These, when followed, never fail to afford relief, and when persevered in, a permanent cure.

Pain in the Head, or Nervous Headache, is usually relieved by a single pinch, although it may have to be taken several times in succession, until sneezing is produced.

For Deafness, Weak or Sore Eyes, use the snuff, morning, noon and night, as long as may be necessary.

In all Acute and Chronic Catarrhal Affections, and for Bronchitis, it ought to be taken two or three times daily and oftener, as convenience will admit, snuffed up thoroughly, so as to be felt in the throat, where its taste is pleasant, (as it contains no tobacco,) promoting free expectoration, and the necessary discharge from the head.

For Infants or Young Children having Snuffles, or Stoppage at the Nose, it is best given when the child is asleep.

FREE MILITARY SCHOOL FOR APPLICANTS FOR COMMANDS OF COLORED TROOPS.—No. 1,210 Chestnut-st., Philadelphia.—JOHN H. TAGGART, late Colonel Twelfth Regiment Pennsylvania Reserves, Preceptor.—The Supervisory Committee for Recruiting Colored Regiments, with the view of providing what the country so urgently needs—namely, applicants for command of colored troops competent for that duty—has established a Military School at their headquarters, in which infantry tactics and knowledge of army regulations are taught gratuitously.

Young men having a fair common school education, and physically sound, and especially privates and non-commissioned officers in the army, who desire to command colored troops, are invited to become students of this School.

Those who already have military knowledge may review it, and be prepared for immediate examination at Washington.

Those who are wholly unacquainted with tactics may remain until they are made proficient in them.

Students, properly advanced, will be allowed to visit Camp William Penn, drill and train troops there, and practice as officers.

Three sessions will be held every day, Sundays excepted, one of which will be a night session:

Each applicant must apply to the Committee for admission, by a letter of his own composition and written by himself, and he must submit testimonials of good character, and receive an affirmative reply before he can be admitted to the school.

Further information can be found in pamphlet, published by the Committee, which will be sent free to any one at a distance requesting a copy, and it can also be had at the office of the Committee, or at the office of this paper.

All letters addressed to either of the undersigned will be promptly answered.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

From the Army of the Potomac the only item of news is the announcement of the departure of several veteran regiments for their homes to spend their furloughs of thirty days. Eight or ten regiments have already left.

From Southern sources it is reported that the rebel army of Tennessee is in Winter quarters; that Longstreet is wandering about among the mountains with a barefooted and suffering army; that the guerrilla John Morgan has reached Columbia, S. C.; and that there are three hundred cases of small-pox among the Union prisoners at Danville, Va.

FROM EUROPE.

The steamship Adriatic, at St. Johns, N. F., brings us telegraphic advices from Europe to the 22d inst., and the Hammonia and City of Manchester, at this port, put us in possession of our foreign correspondence and files to the 16th. The news is interesting. Synopses of President Lincoln's Message and Proclamation of Amnesty had reached England, and were variously commented on by the journals. The offer of peace is generally considered impracticable in its conditions. The situation of affairs puzzles and mystifies the editors exceedingly. It is stated on the authority of the Liverpool Post, that Lord Lyons has hazarded a prediction to Earl Russell that the war will end in three months, because of the exhaustion of the rebels. The message of Jeff. Davis was generally regarded by the press as evincing no signs of yielding on the part of the South. The rebel government are said to have made full provision to meet the payment of the £75,000 sterling Cotton Loan Bonds to be drawn for in March. Employes in the dockyard at Sheerness had been stringently dealt with by the British Admiralty, for connivance in fitting out the Rappahannock for the Confederates, and the names of persons connected with the Naval Reserve, who have served on any rebel vessels, have been stricken from the list, and their privileges forfeited. It was rumored that the Duke of Newcastle was about to resign his position of Secretary of State on account of ill-health. Our Paris correspondence gives important information concerning the building and fitting out of rebel war vessels in French ports, and the measures which have been adopted by our Minister, Mr. Dayton, to prevent their departure, from which it is likely that the rebel plans to get up a navy in that quarter will be defeated. Mr. Superville, the new rebel Envoy to France, had arrived at Paris, it was said, with a mission to notify the French Government of the recognition by the Confederacy of the Empire of Mexico, and to try to persuade Napoleon to recognize the South in return for that acknowledgment. There is little change in the Schleswig-Holstein affair, but it was supposed that Denmark would not forcibly oppose the Federal Execution.

GENERAL NEWS.

The Board of Aldermen met yesterday. The Comptroller's report of receipts and expenditures was received, and a number of transfers of appropriations. Elsewhere will be found details of them.

The Board of Councilmen are to meet by special call, at 10 P. M., to-day, to concur in the transfers of appropriations recommended by the Comptroller, and passed by the Board of Aldermen yesterday.

At the meeting of the Board of Supervisors, yesterday, a resolution, by Mr. Tweed, was adopted, in favor of petitioning the next Legislature to increase the pay of the Police of this City. The Board unanimously adopted a resolution to pay the Deputy Comptroller, Mr. Wm. E. Warren, the extra compensation inserted in the County Tax Laws of 1863 for him of $1,500 per year during Mr. Haws' term of office, in consideration of the very laborious duty devolved upon him during that period of adjusting and systematizing many old and unsettled accounts, by which both the County and City were saved many thousands of dollars. The Board adjourned to 1 o'clock P. M. on Thursday.

By the arrival of the steamships Tubal Cain and Eagle at this port yesterday, we have late news from Cuba and San Domingo. The rebellion in the latter island still continued formidable, and the Spanish troops, owing to various unfavorable causes, of weather, sickness and guerrillas, were making very little progress in suppressing it. The sickness among the Spanish troops was very severe, fifteen hundred having been sent home in a single week. The Spanish army on the island numbered 10,000. The Spanish war-steamer Alara had burst her boilers and been destroyed by fire in a port of the Canary Islands. A large cargo of war material was thus lost. Everything was quiet at Havana. The U. S. war-steamer Powhatan was in port.

The splendid iron-clad Italian frigate, Re d'Italia, which started on her trial trip on Monday, went ashore on the beach near Barnegat Light, on Tuesday morning at 1 o'clock. The vessel is hard aground, but lies easy, and the prospect of getting her off seemed good yesterday. Ample assistance had been sent to her.

The Hartford Courant says that the wife of Gen. Gustavus W. Smith, of the rebel army, who has been spending some time in New-London, and rendering herself not a little obnoxious by the expression of disloyal sentiments, has been compelled, by orders from headquarters, to leave for Fortress Monroe, whence she will be sent across the lines to her friends in Dixie.

The National Union League has in existence about 4,500 councils of that order in the loyal States, with a membership of over 750,000 in number. Wisconsin has over 200 councils and 25,000 members, and Illinois 140,000 members.

A heavy robbery took place on the stage line between La Crosse, Wis., and St. Paul, on the 20th. Some parties organizing a National Bank, were sending $35,000 in United States bonds to Washington. They were placed in the trunk and strapped on the back of the stage. A few miles north of Lake City, the trunk was cut off from the stage, and no trace of it has yet been found.

Maj.-Gen. Thomas, in General Orders, has designated Col. H. A. Barnum, commanding One Hundred and Forty-ninth regiment New-York Volunteers, and Sergeant-Major Mortimer B. Budsley, of the same regiment, for their gallant conduct in the battle of Chattanooga, to take to Washington, D. C., and deliver to the Adjutant-General the flags captured by the Army of the Cumberland from the rebels.

The price of Gold was ¼@¼ ℔ cent. higher yesterday, closing at 152¾. Exchange 167. Money in request at 7 ℔ cent. Stocks closed steady after several changes in the temper of the market through the day.

A good demand prevailed for Cotton and Breadstuffs yesterday at, in the main, former prices. Provisions were quite freely purchased, but at irregular rates. Hay, Fruit, Wool and Tallow were in fair request. Moderate transactions were reported in Fish, Hops, Hemp, Lime, Oils, Seeds, Sugars, Teas, Whisky and Tobacco. Heavier freight engagements transpired.

The Live Stock markets have been very lightly supplied this week, and all kinds have sold quickly, at better prices. Fewer animals are wanted during holiday week, and, acting with this knowledge, shippers held back so strongly that only about one-half as much stock was received as during the previous week. People are more discriminating than formerly, and the call now is for choice fat animals. These sell quickly at high prices, while poor stock literally goes begging at half price....Beeves foot up 3,922 for the week, which was just about what butchers wanted. They were all sold, the average being 9¾c. ℔ lb., net weight, or ¼c. higher than last week. The range was from 6½c. for the poorest, to 13c. for a few of the best cattle. Good butchers' steers generally commanded 10¾c.@11¼c....Sheep are scarce and very high. Receipts only 7,586, including over 1,000 bought by the butchers direct. Common sheep are worth 5¼c.@6c. ℔ lb., good animals 7c., and extra fat sheep 8c....Live hogs are in quick demand, the 15,703 received proving insufficient for the fresh pork and the packing trade. Fat corn-fed hogs are worth 6¾c.@7c. ℔ lb.; still-fed, 6¼c.

How the Amnesty Proclamation Works.

Edwin H. Ewing was long known as one of the ablest lawyers in Tennessee. When the President issued his requisition upon the States for seventy-five thousand men, after the bombardment of Sumter, Mr. Ewing united with John Bell, Neil S. Brown, Bailie Peyton, and half a dozen of the other leading men of the State, in a public address sustaining Gov. Harris in refusing to furnish the two regiments required of their State. Five days afterward, he addressed, with John Bell, a great popular gathering in Nashville, and declared, as we find reported at the time, that "the Union between the North and the South was at an end forever, and he had no hope of its restoration. He regarded this as a war of subjugation, and would never consent to such a domination as was attempted to be established over us." We see it now stated that this same Edwin H. Ewing has expressed his readiness to accept amnesty on the conditions of the President's Proclamation, and freely urges the same step upon his friends.

Report comes from North Carolina that a number of rebel officers and soldiers have come into our lines and made their submission in the same way. Thousands, it is said, in Arkansas are securing oblivion of the past, by taking upon themselves similar obligations, and think it not a hardship at all, but a privilege.

Now we know that one swallow don't make a Summer, nor several. We would, by no means, attach undue consequence to these facts. But they seem to be worth something as indications. It is not yet three weeks since that Amnesty Proclamation was issued. Of course no sensible man ever imagined that it would have any speedy effect within the rebel lines. It would require time for it to be brought to the knowledge of the people. And, again, after a right understanding of it had been gained, it would take a yet longer time for definite resolutions to be formed upon it, and definite lines of action to be adopted. In fact, under the despotism which presses everywhere in the Confederacy, any popular demonstration in response to the President's offer was extremely improbable. The chief value of that offer, so far as relates to those parts of the South yet unreached by our arms, was simply moral. It was calculated not so much to excite a counter-revolution, as to predispose the common people of the South to a prompt and cheerful submission, when our armies shall advance. It was adapted to wean the people from the desperation into which the rebel leaders had sought to plunge them by the representation that there was no such thing as yielding but at the cost of perpetual vassalage. We must, therefore, expect that the results of the Proclamation will only gradually reveal themselves, and must await them in patience. That they will come in due time, and in a very valuable shape, we have not a doubt.

The rebel Congress affects to treat the Proclamation with sovereign contempt. Of course it does; and for two reasons. First, there is not a man of them who is not expressly excluded from the benefit of its provisions, by being "civil officers of the so-called Confederate Government." And again, there is probably not a man of them who is not a slaveholder, and the oath to support the Emancipation Proclamation, until declared null by the Supreme Court, must be to all slaveholders like holy water to the Evil One.

The Proclamation of course was not designed to appease and win over the Slave Power. The man is a fool who at this day believes in this possibility, under any device short of a complete and absolute surrender of this Government to that power. It made the rebellion; it staked its all on the rebellion, and whatever the attitude of the Government, it will adhere to the rebellion to the last gasp. But the Slave Power and the Southern people are not identical. The one is only a small part of the other, though it has hitherto been the supremely controlling part. There is nothing inherent to prevent their being dissociated. On the contrary, there long has been the strongest reason why the Slave Power should be repelled by the common people of the South; for it is an undeniable truth that it always kept them in ignorance, poverty and degradation, and, through its instrumentality alone, they have for the last two years been subjected to the most terrible woes that have befallen any people. By virtue of every right feeling and sound principle, there certainly ought to be a break between the slaveholders and the poor whites. It is just and wise in President Lincoln to labor to produce it. If once effected, the rebellion would speedily sink, and the complete reconciliation of the vast majority of the South would follow with little delay or trouble. The Amnesty Proclamation takes away all inducement to follow the Slave Power to "the last ditch," and die with it there. By proffering reinstatement in every right and privilege valuable to an American citizen, it, in fact, makes all such desperation morally impossible. Arbitrary power, which is still wielded exclusively by those to whom Slavery is the supreme concern, will for the present hold the people to the fight. But it will be able to push the people to no such extremity as it once believed it could do, if the necessity were upon it. There may be, and probably will be, good stiff fighting yet up to a certain point; but, before being pressed beyond that point, there will be a general escape through the wide and safe gate which this Amnesty Proclamation will always keep open.

A Discriminating Neutrality—Belligerent Vessels at the Bahamas.

The British Government has seen fit to hedge round its interpretation of maritime neutrality with restrictions, in the case of the Bahamas, with extraordinary stringency; and among our European news this morning will be found a dispatch from the Duke of Newcastle to the Governor of the Bahamas that draws the bands still tighter. In the original rules, touching the reception of the war vessels of either belligerent, defined by Earl Russell in his dispatch dated Jan. 31, 1862, (republished by us in another column,) it was directed that no ship-of-war or privateer belonging to either belligerent should be permitted to enter or remain in the port of Nassau, or in any other port, roadstead or waters of the Bahama Islands, except by special leave of the Lieutenant-Governor, or in case of stress of weather. Now, doubts having arisen as to whether a belligerent ship-of-war or privateer should obtain the permission of the local authorities before entering the ports, roadsteads or waters of the Bahama out-islands when the Governor was not present, it is the object of the Duke of Newcastle's late note, under date of Oct. 6, to state that at the out-islands, as at Nassau, the special leave of the Governor himself is required, unless in cases of grave emergency and real necessity and distress. In such cases, as, for instance, where a sailing vessel is dismasted, or an accident happens to the machinery of a steam vessel, the vessel may enter by leave of a resident officer to whom the Governor shall have given authority to admit her. But such officer must receive copies of the regulations of the 31st January, 1862, and his especial attention must be called to the limits of the authority delegated, and to that clause in the regulations in which it is directed that vessels entering under stress of weather, or by special leave, shall be required to put to sea as soon as possible.

Now, there is no objection to these stringent rules in respect that they embody a policy of perfect "neutrality;" but if the British Government had set its collective wisdom at the task of devising a set of maritime prescriptions which, while strictly "neutral" in the letter, should in effect discriminate grievously against the United States, they could not have been more successful than they have in these rules for belligerent vessels in the ports of the Bahamas. It is hard that Great Britain should make Nassau and the ports of the Bahamas the subjects of different conditions for the entry of our war-vessels than those on which our vessels enter all other British ports, especially when it happens that these are the very ports in regard to which it is important to us that discriminating restrictions should not be imposed. Everybody knows that Nassau and the other ports of the Bahamas have been made the great entrepôts of Anglo-rebel contraband trade. Intending blockade-runners can enter those ports freely and without any restrictions; but the cautels, caveats, and limitations that hedge the entry of our war-vessels—first, that no war-vessel shall enter without the special leave of the Governor himself; secondly, that no such vessel shall be permitted to put to sea until after the expiration of at least twenty-four hours from the time of the departure of the last preceding vessel of the other belligerent, (whether the same shall be a ship-of-war, or privateer, or merchant ship—mark the significance of the italicised words)—we say these restrictions and discriminations are of a nature to put, practically, a premium on blockade-running. We do not pretend to say that the British Government intended this result, but such is its bearing. We would say, further, that the particular circumstances that induced the British Government to put the ports of the Bahamas under different rules from those which govern her maritime neutrality at all her other ports, have since passed away; and instead of imposing fresh restrictions, it would have been a friendlier act to have abolished them altogether.

Mallory's Report of the Rebel Navy.—In another column will be found the full report of the rebel Secretary of the Navy, of which we have hitherto had only fragmentary portions. It will be found a very interesting document. Mr. Mallory states that "the operations of this branch of the Confederate service have been chiefly confined to preparations for ridding our waters of the enemy's vessels now blockading our seaports;" but as we have yet to hear that the blockade of any of "our seaports" has yet been raised, the inference is that they have utterly failed in their main purpose; and as, according to the last Message of Mr. Jefferson Davis, it is only a "paper blockade," this failure tells badly for the rebels. If, however, there is not much that is encouraging in this direction, Mr. Mallory finds great solace in the exploits of the rebel cruisers. The Florida has, it seems, during the past year, destroyed vessels and property "amounting to several millions," while the Alabama (Semmes) "has captured upward of ninety vessels, seventy of which were destroyed, the others being either bonded or released." The acknowledgment of the construction of iron-clad steam rams in England and France, already commented upon, is made in the most explicit terms. But although the British Government's "unfriendly construction of its neutrality laws" has put a stopper on "the Emperor of China's" rams, yet Mr. Mallory tells us that another and larger one has been built, and that, in regard to her, "precautions have been taken sufficient to exempt her from the fate of her consorts." Those building in France had been subjected to so many official visitations that he forwarded instructions to cease operations upon them "until the result of negotiations now pending shall permit our agent to resume work upon them." These are little items that our authorities will doubtless have an eye to. Mr. Mallory speaks affectingly of the "proud spirit of our officers chafing at the inaction they are compelled to endure;" but he sees in prophetic vision a grand future for the rebel navy. When they get their "six turreted iron-clads," their eight rams and their "hundred small wooden gunboats," they will no doubt have a great navy. But for the present it is all in the "future in rus."

Mr. Cobden's Quarrel—The Anonymous Character of Journalism.

Mr. Cobden's quarrel with the London Times is bringing up in England once more the much debated topic of the anonymity of articles in the press. Mr. Cobden, and nearly every other man who has passed long years in public strife, and is daily undergoing the rude buffetings of political controversy, is greatly annoyed at having any comments made upon his public doings by writers whose names are not revealed. The reason of this is quite obvious. There have been few, if any public men, in any country or in any age, equal to the task of discussing any question upon its merits solely, and without any reference, tacit or expressed, to the qualities or antecedents of his opponents or critics. No matter what the subject may be, however elevating, however sacred, however far removed from the passions, prejudices and interests of everyday life, nobody who deals with it ever seems wholly able to dismiss from his mind the personality of those taking an opposite view of it. This is true of religion and of philosophy; no wonder it is true of politics. The odium theologicum has been for we know not how many centuries a synonym for the bitterest rancor, and there have been few quarrels more envenomed than those arising from differences of opinion upon points of metaphysics and natural philosophy. A recent volume of the Peaks, Passes and Glaciers tells of the violent quarrel and separation in Switzerland of two intimate friends who came over from America to travel in Europe together, owing to an irreconcilable difference of opinion upon the glacier theory. In short, whenever an ardent man—and all prominent men in every walk of life are ardent men—discovers that an opinion differing from his own has been promulgated upon a subject in which he is much interested, his first and strongest desire, before devoting himself to a consideration of the arguments by which it is supported, is to discover who the author is and to get at him. All this is simply human and natural. We are none of us spiritual enough to be able to deal contentedly with abstractions alone. Both truth and error have to take a concrete form before we can either love or hate them as they deserve. Each is to have a man behind it, before it can be properly assailed or defended.

But all this is, nevertheless, the curse of politics, of jurisprudence and of religion. It is, perhaps, the greatest barrier in existence to real progress. Nothing is more certain than that we should make prodigious advances in the science of government, if legislators could be reduced to mere voices—voces et preterea nihil—and if when a speech was made, it was simply an emanation of reason and fancy, and no detested, or despised or idolized man were known to have any connection with it. Nothing is more certain than that justice, humanity and sound policy are rarely gainers by having a temporary representative in the shape of 160 or 170 pounds of flesh and blood from New-York or Illinois. Consequently we hold that the impersonality of the press—like the representative system, a modern invention—is a great gain for every country in which it prevails. It relieves the discussion of public questions from one of its greatest disadvantages—the inevitable disposition on the part of the reader to estimate the value of the writer's opinions by what he knows or does not know of his position or acquirements. If Smith publishes over his own signature his belief that the roads in Virginia are so muddy in Winter as to render military movements impossible, a large portion of the public are unwilling to believe it, not because there is any improbability about it, but because they are annoyed at Smith's undertaking to instruct them.

Anonymous writing is of course liable to abuse, like everything else under the sun, not excepting writing that is not anonymous. We are quite satisfied that the proportion of personality and slander and misrepresentation to be found in speeches at the Bar, and in Congress and Parliament and on the stump, to the total amount of what is said, is larger than in the articles of the press. The only way to repress these abuses on the part of the press is to make some known person legally responsible for everything that is published, or to have the taste of the public in such a condition, that articles on character, or bitter personalities, shall be found unprofitable. The former of these checks exists in every community in which newspapers are published; as to the latter, wherever it does not exist it is folly to suppose that the appearance of the writer's name at the end of his article will compensate for absence of it. If the manners of readers are such that falsehood, personality and buffoonery please, there will always be writers found who will not only not shrink from putting their names to columns of absurdity or ribaldry, but will glory in it; and it is hard to say what gain to morals can be derived from knowing who they are. We say nothing here of how much of the clamor against anonymous writing is due to the desire of notorious public offenders to turn attention away from their own misdeeds. The criticism of the press is, in free countries, almost the only check upon the misconduct of this class, and there is no way in which its edge can be so readily blunted as by turning public attention on the imperfections, real or imaginary, of the writer, or in other words, getting up a personal quarrel with him. If a newspaper attempts to show that B is incompetent or corrupt, or negligent or mistaken, B's great object is not so much to refute the charges or turn over a new leaf, but to get them out of sight by getting the author on the stage, and proving that he is himself as bad or worse than B. This may be true, but this is not the question in which the public is interested, and it is for the public benefit that the press exists.

Amusements.

Academy of Music.—Mr. Maretzek's last performance takes place this evening—the opera being Gounod's "Faust." The great popularity of the work, its admirable caste and fine mise-en-scene, will insure a splendid attendance. Mr. Maretzek and troupe leave for Boston to-morrow, and will not return until February. It is, therefore, the last holiday chance. The interest of the performance will be enhanced by the fact that the Arion Society will take part in the Soldiers' Chorus of the fourth act. An accession of so many fine manly voices will give the fullest effect possible to this favorite morceau.

Twenty-second Regiment Concert.—The Band of the Twenty-second regiment, assisted by Mme. D'Angri, Mrs. Van Zant and Signor Centimeri, gave a popular concert at the Academy of Music last night. It was finely attended, and the performances passed off to the satisfaction of all present.

Olympic Theatre.—A new four-act drama, called "Camilla's Husband," was produced here on Monday night. The programme, with an illiberality which we are sorry to find becoming general, neglects to mention the author's name. We learn incidentally, however, that the play has been given with success in London, in Philadelphia and in Boston. There is not much enterprise, therefore, in producing it here, or occasion for mystery concerning its authorship. Carlyle, writing of bigger deer than this, remarks that "no candid man will doubt but the talent which constructed a 'Virginius' or a 'Bertram' might have sufficed, had it been properly directed, to make not only wheelbarrows and wagons, but even mills of considerable complicacy." The author of "Camilla's Husband" would, we are sure, have been respectable in any of these pursuits. As a dramatist, however, he has his faults. The parts do not hold well together—and this, too, in spite of the fact that they are constructed of exceedingly well-seasoned material. Still, it must be conceded to him that all the knobs and bosses of incident and situation are well polished, and, by their glitter, betray the mind into an acceptance of what is otherwise cheap and commonplace.

The story of the play is this: Lady Camilla (Mrs. John Wood) is compelled to marry when she attains her majority, or sacrifice a large portion of her estate to a relative. This relative is a suitor for her hand. She dislikes him, flees from his importunity, and, with a prudent eye to the main chance, marries, in an obscure village, a vagrant artist, whereby her estates are put out of jeopardy. Previous to the ceremony she makes a distinct bargain with said artist. He is to receive a certain sum "down" for the ordeal, and thereafter to expect neither spouse nor specie. The artist is a good-looking, shapely young fellow, with a turn for the vapors, and a certain pallor of skin which a recent critic declares to be irresistible with the sex. It does not distinctly appear whether he is most agitated at the receipt of an unusual sum in ready money or the loss of a bride, who, it must be confessed, even to a person of cheerful and florid temperament, was sufficiently attractive. At all events, he is rendered uncomfortable. The Lady Camilla, after the marriage, returns to her own circle—the painter to his. They do not see each other for an entire act. Then, in a providential way, he rescues her from a watery grave. She has been sailing on Lake Windermere, and the boat has upset—probably because a very heavy person in a red coat was seated in it. He—the artist—plunges in, fishes her out, and lays her, insensible, on a bank. The Lady Camilla, when she is restored to reason, desires to see her preserver. An interview takes place. She recognizes her husband, but repulses all his approaches. In the last act—we have got to it already—the painter has become famous. No one disputes his position except the discomforted relative. This worthy still believes that he can secure the hand of Camilla if the artist-husband be put out of the way. He makes a point, therefore, of speaking offensively of the latter's origin, and of goading him into a quarrel. He is successful. A duel is to take place, when Camilla appears and implores him not to put his life in danger. Who could resist such an appeal? Where is the artist, journalist, or more common fellow, who would prefer swords to such smiles? The painter sends an apology, but the sanguinary relative won't listen to it. He heaps obloquy upon him; affronts him a way that manhood revolts at, but the painter, true to his promise to Camilla, bears it all. Then follows a "situation," magnificent, but not new. Camilla, during the whole of this scene, has been concealed behind a piece of statuary. She rushes forward, absolves the artist from his oath, and says, "Fight that man." Nothing loth, he proceeds to do so, and Camilla has the satisfaction—shared also by the audience—of seeing the obnoxious relative trussed in the nicest style of tierce and carte.

It reads like a newspaper novelette, and is nothing better. The first and second acts are tame, and purely narrative in their character. The third act has an interesting scene; the fourth a splendid situation. These saved the piece, and brought down the curtain with applause. In the underplot there is a good low comedian part, moderately well interpreted by Mr. Davidge. The only indications of literary ability are found here. Elsewhere—if the actors spoke the words correctly—there was much even for "a critic of the grammarian species" to cavil at.

Mr. Jamison was the relative, (Sir Philip Hailstone,) and played it in a cold, clammy and unimpassioned way. The idea of his ever possessing Camilla whilst the cheerful alternative of the Grave yet remained to the lady, was from the beginning preposterous. Of the host of little names we shall not speak. Their pace requires quickening, and then they will be good enough. The event of the evening was the début of Mr. J. K. Mortimer, a gentleman from the Western theatres. It was in every respect a success. Mr. Mortimer has an exceedingly agreeable presence. He walks gracefully, and appears to be thoroughly at home in the business of the stage. His voice is thin, but not unpleasant. In the use of it he is not altogether free from mannerism; but this taint of provincial "star"-ism will, we trust, be speedily eradicated. The part of the artist could hardly have been intrusted to better hands. Mr. Mortimer is a most valuable addition to Mrs. Wood's company, and we welcome him to the New-York stage with lively expectations of future improvement.

The Lady Camilla of Mrs. John Wood was, as Le Follet would say, "a model of good taste and fine needlework." We have seldom seen this charming lady look better; her toilettes were perfection. As a matter of choice we prefer Mrs. Wood in comic impersonations, where she is absolutely without a rival. But as an exigency of the season it is agreeable to see her in a serious rôle. It serves the useful purpose of teaching us anew that a thorough artist can at all times step from "grave to gay, from lively to severe." But we hope and trust that her success will not deprive the City of the jolliest actress that ever trod its boards.

The play was placed on the stage in a very satisfactory manner. The priory scene, and the atelier of the artist in the last act, were admirable specimens of scene painting and stage furnishing. The dresses—with the exceptional vagaries, as of the petticoated smugglers (?) of the second act, and the Spanish costume of the English artist's friend, Hyacinth—were good. There was some slowness in the performance which will, of course, be corrected; otherwise, the play went off well, and will, undoubtedly, enjoy a career of popularity commensurate with its merits.

FROM ST. DOMINGO, &c.

Progress of the Revolution—Poor Success of the Spanish Troops—A Blockade-Runner Ashore.

The American and West India Company's steamship Tubal Cain, Capt. Foster, from St. Domingo, St. Thomas, Bermuda, &c., arrived at this port at an early hour yesterday morning.

The Tubal Cain, when off Bermuda, was taken for a United States cruiser by the rebel steamer Flora, when her crew run the Flora ashore, and damaged her so badly that she will have to go to Halifax for repairs.

Havana, Wednesday, Dec. 23.

We have dates from Azua, St. Domingo, to the 7th inst.

On the 5th Gen. La Gandara occupied that town after some little skirmishing. The enemy are reported to have lost heavily in killed and wounded, which probably means about a dozen.

The Spanish troops marched from Bani along coast. Transportation was furnished them by the fleet, from which they also received their daily rations.

The reported loss of the Spaniards from the time they left Bani until their occupation of Azua, is 11 or 14 wounded and not a single death.

The rebels were chased by the Spanish cavalry along the San Juan de Matas road. The rebels were led by Gen. Florentino. No captures of prisoners are reported.

The Spanish war steamer Alava, from Cadiz, with 800 troops, was disabled by a storm, and, having burst her boilers, put into a port in the Canary Islands. Subsequently a fire was discovered in the hold in the coal and the vessel was soon in flames, and as the flames endangered a powder magazine on the shore, she was sunk, and will prove a total loss. With her went down 50,000 rations, 2,500 muskets, and 2,000 tents, all intended for Santa Domingo.

THE LATEST.

By the arrival of the steamer Eagle at this port yesterday afternoon, we have Havana news to the 25th.

Havana, Friday, Dec. 25.

The Spanish steamer Velasco arrived here yesterday, with dates from Santo Domingo to the 12th, and from Santiago de Cuba to the 18th inst.

The occupation of Azua by the Spanish troops is confirmed.

Gen. La Gaudara is reported to have sent a column under Gen. Puelto from Azua to cut off a convoy of cattle, which the rebels are said to be taking toward Hayti.

A force which left Santo Domingo City, about the 7th inst., had been heard from on the 12th. They went inland via San Cristobal, which is twelve miles from the Capital. The newspapers of the 12th state that they are reported to have arrived at a place called Monoguagalvo; but they add, "we have no details of their march," which means they know nothing of them since they left San Cristobal.

Altogether the aspect of general affairs is by no means bright for Spain in Santo Domingo. About 20,000 troops have been sent in all, and more are being prepared to leave Cuba, Puerto Rico and Spain for that island.

The United States steamer Pawhatan is still here. Commodore Lardner was saluted yesterday, the 24th, at 4 P. M. As the Pawhatan has been in port four days this tardy response to his courteous salutes has been commented upon. There is, doubtless, some good excuse.

The Alleged Kidnapping of Negro Recruits.

The article in Monday's Times in regard to a "kidnapping" of a negro at Lafayette Hall, is denied by Gen. Spinola and his Staff. We give them the benefit of the denial, and assert that the information was received from the headquarters of the negro regiment, No. 350 Fourth-street, and that Alexander, one of the colored men alleged to have been kidnapped, was one of the informants. We learn also from the headquarters of Gen. Dix, that an officer was sent to arrest the parties charged as guilty of the kidnapping, but that they were not to be found. There is no disposition to reflect upon Gen. Spinola or his division. He is presumed not to be responsible for all the acts in detail of his subordinates, but on half an hour's attempt yesterday, at his headquarters to ascertain the facts of the case, all that could be ascertained was that "it was not so." The officers of the guard on Thursday and Friday deny the statement in toto, and yet another officer states that there was a colored man taken charge of on Thursday, who was a recruit, and that Alexander, the colored man referred to in the article of Monday, interfered, and was arrested and held for such interference. The officers disclaim entirely any cognizance or countenance of acts such as were complained of, and allege that in all cases coming to their knowledge the remedy and rebuke are promptly applied. If rests with the officers of the negro regiment to substantiate the statement made to our reporter.

Arrivals in the City.

Secretary Seward, accompanied by his daughter and Miss Perry, arrived at the Astor House from Washington about 12¼ o'clock yesterday morning. They will remain in the City for a day or two previous to their departure for the Secretary's home in Auburn, it being his intention to spend New-Year's Day with his family.

Gen. J. A. Rawlings, Chief of Gen. Grant's Staff; Capt. French, Gen. Burnside's Staff; Comte Castiglione, and Major De Vinley, Italy; Capt. Batchelder, British Army; and Theodore Chase, Boston, are at the Brevoort House.

Hon. H. R. Low, New-York; Col. H. R. Coggsall, Philadelphia; Capt. H. Watkins, U. S. A.; Dr. S. W. Bradley, U. S. Navy; and H. L. Foster, Philadelphia, are at the Metropolitan Hotel.

Adjt.-Gen. Sprague, Albany; Jas. B. Agnew, Philadelphia; E. Stein, Russia; and C. W. Johnston and lady, Louisville, Ky., are at the St. Nicholas Hotel.

Surgeon J. Marcus Rice, Twenty-fifth Massachusetts Volunteers; Col. Small and wife, U. S. Army; and Maj. Lewis, New-Orleans, are at the Astor House.

A NOBLE HOLIDAY GIFT.—It is almost too late in the day to recommend the sewing-machine as a useful article in a family. No well-regulated household is without one. This question settled, the next thing to do is to select the one best suited to your requirements. Both of the editors of the Home Journal have long had the Grover & Baker machine in their households, and can speak from experience. We therefore have no hesitation in saying that we like this machine, and for the following reasons: First—It is more simple, durable and less liable to derangement than others. Second—It sews from ordinary spools, and no rewinding of thread is necessary. Third—It sews with equal facility all fabrics, the most delicate and the heaviest, and with all kinds of thread, silk, cotton or linen. Fourth—Its seam is so strong and elastic that it never breaks. Fifth—It fastens both ends of the seam by its own operation. Sixth—Its seam, though cut at every sixth stitch, remains firm, and neither rips nor ravels in wear. But, besides the above qualities to recommend the "Grover & Baker," it has a faculty which no other machine possesses; it makes beautiful embroidery without any change of arrangement. Having come to the conclusion as to which machine to purchase, we would ask what more noble or handsomer holiday gift could be selected? Nothing could possibly be more acceptable in a house where it has not yet been introduced. It not only saves money and time, but is certain to preserve the health and very often the temper of the "gude wife."—New-York Home Journal.

A NEW YEAR'S PRESENT OF AFFECTION AND CHARITY.—What shall it be? What will best redeem the past, and be a good omen for the future? What souvenir will have the most potent charm; touch most deeply the heart; live sweetest in the memory; not be cast aside after receiving the due meed of admiration, but be ever present in the daily routine of life; speak of a happy New Year and a tender thoughtfulness? Among other things we suggest a WHEELER & WILSON'S Sewing Machine. It will bring sunshine, perfect sunshine, into many dark hours. A thing of use and beauty is a joy forever. Into every perfect line of stitching, so magically wrought by that swift, glittering needle, will be twined tender remembrances of the donor's thoughtfulness.—Express.

Among the many changes since the introduction of WHEELER & WILSON'S sewing-machines, and closely connected with their immediate introduction up town, with the sagacious foresight of a STEWART a depot for their supply, under the management of Mr. J. T. ELLIS, is now established at No. 939 Broadway, corner of Twenty-second-street, where a complete system is inaugurated, whereby its patrons may not only select machines without the necessity of going down town, but it has become a complete emporium for all connected with successful sewing by machinery. Operators, with or without machines, are furnished to families; instruction given at residences if desired; machines to let, machines repaired, &c., &c.—Dispatch.

A cheap, but most useful and acceptable gift to send to ladies in the country would be Madame DEMOREST'S "dress elevator," the best, simplest, and most practicable article of the kind that we know. A decided novelty, and only fifty cents.—New-York Sunday Times.

Chlonsma, or Moth Patches.

Blemishes on the face, called Moth, are very annoying, particularly to ladies of light complexion, as the discolored spots on the skin show more strongly on blondes than on brunettes, but they contribute greatly in marring the beauty on either, and anything that will remove Moth Patches without injuring the skin in texture or color, would no doubt be considered a great achievement in medical science. Dr. B. C. PERRY, having devoted his whole time and attention to Diseases of the Skin, will guarantee to remove Moth Patches, Freckles, and other discolorations from the face without injury to either texture or color of the skin. His success in this, as in other branches of his specialty—DISEASES OF THE SCALP and LOSS OF HAIR—will warrant him in guaranteeing a CURE IN EVERY CASE. AGAIN NEW TESTIMONY.

READ.

HARLEM, July 30, 1863.

I have been deaf for over TWENTY-FIVE YEARS, and Dr. VON EISENBERG operated on both of my ears without the slightest pain—a thing that I could not believe could be done. I now hear well, and feel as I never felt for the last twenty years. The dexterity and skill with which the operation was performed evince the highest practical ability. I hear perfectly. It is now over a month since the operation, and I continue to feel as well as ever.

TESTIMONIAL FROM ONE OF THE MOST RESPECTABLE CITIZENS OF NEW-YORK.
DEAFNESS AND CATARRH CURED.

No. 420 SIXTH-AV., NEW-YORK, Dec. 2, 1863.

I was deaf for several years, and hearing of the great cures performed by Dr. Von Eisenberg, I was induced to place myself under his care, and I am now happy to state that my hearing was entirely restored after a short treatment. I was also suffering from chronic catarrh, of which I was also cured by the skillful treatment of Dr. Von Eisenberg. I do but justice to the Doctor in stating that in treating me he displayed that skill and knowledge which have already procured for him such a deserved reputation, and that the principles which direct his system of curing Deafness and Catarrh are such as to render success certain, in my opinion. Many months have passed since Dr. Von Eisenberg restored my hearing, and it continues as good as ever.
O. HOPKINS.

CATARRH CURED.

NEW-YORK, Aug. 23, 1863.

I have been suffering for the last three years from a severe Catarrh, with a continual dullness in my head, a tightness across my chest, a weight over my eyes, which were weak, watery and very painful. My nostrils were continually obstructed with a pouring of fluid. I have had frequent sneezing, hoarseness of my voice, generally attended with spitting, often with a fullness of my throat, together with a soreness and a dropping. Dr. VON EISENBERG has cured me of all these disagreeable sufferings. I now feel a new life. The treatment of Dr. VON EISENBERG is as skillful as it is successful; it is impossible to overrate the benefit I have received at his hands. I heartily recommend any one suffering like myself to place themselves under Dr. VON EISENBERG'S care, with a certainty of being speedily cured. I give this with gratitude and pleasure. I cannot forbear again saying that my voice, which was hoarse and thick when I applied to Dr. VON EISENBERG, is now clear and good, indeed, I feel abundantly satisfied.
JAMES LITTLE,
No. 245 7th-st., New-York.

NEW-YORK, Sept. 8.

I have been suffering for years past from a severe Catarrh, with a great heaviness over my eyes, with a severe depression, great uneasiness, and pain in my head, great difficulty in breathing, and a continual accumulation in my nostrils, which gave me restless nights for several years. I have consulted several physicians, who pronounced me to be consumptive. What I suffered for so long a time is indescribable. My system was entirely disarranged and greatly debilitated. I not only felt weak, but I had a cloud continually before my eyes, and my ears were so affected that I was threatened with a total loss of hearing. I must say, I think, I was guided by Providence to come to Dr. Von Eisenberg, who not only cured me of my Catarrh by removing an astonishing quantity of disagreeable matter from my head, but he restored me to perfect health, a blessing I have not enjoyed for many years. Now I enjoy a good night's rest, and pursue my business with comfort. I must acknowledge that Dr. Von Eisenberg's mild and scientific treatment for Catarrh deserves the highest commendation, as the principle which directs his system of curing Catarrh is such as to render success certain.
JAMES FURLONG, No. 556 2d-av.

No. 134 ALLEN-ST., NEW-YORK, Feb. 9, 1863.

I have been completely deaf in one ear, and partially so in the other, for above seventeen years, with a disagreeable discharge from both ears, combined with continual rumbling noise in the head, for which I have been treated by a most eminent practitioner in the City without the slightest relief.

I consulted Dr. Von Eisenberg, but I must candidly say that I had no faith in his success when I did so. It is, therefore, due to Dr. Von Eisenberg to acknowledge that I am entirely cured; also, that he displayed that skill and knowledge which have procured for him such an unrivaled reputation. As I have had an opportunity of comparing his mode of treatment with that of others, I can truly state that it is not only superior, but the principles which direct his mode of restoring the hearing are, in my opinion, certain. JOHN TAYLOR,

NEW-YORK, July 19, 1862.

This certifies that my mother has been for some time afflicted with partial deafness, suffering from pain, and rumbling noises in the head, together with other indications of a total loss of hearing. Dr. Von Eisenberg removed from her ears a great quantity of matter, together with coagulated blood, relieving her instantaneously, and all without pain. It is with grateful thanks that I give this testimony to his skill.

CHRONIC CATARRH CURED.

READ.

NEW-YORK, March 20, 1863.

"This is to certify, that I have suffered from very severe CHRONIC CATARRH, with a dull heaviness in the head. I felt my nose completely stopped up accompanied by continual soreness of the throat, the chills stealing over me with occasional hot flushes, a great tightness of the chest and pain, so much so, that every one thought it was consumption. Having heard of the great cures performed by Dr. Von Eisenberg, I consulted him with but little hope of a cure. I am now happy to be enabled to add my testimonial to the great number already in the Doctor's possession, as to his scientific and successful mode of treatment, as he has shown in my case that skill and knowledge which have procured for him so great a reputation. I am so entirely restored to perfect health that I do most sincerely recommend all sufferers from CHRONIC CATARRH and SORE THROAT to apply at once to Dr. Von Eisenberg with a certainty of being cured."

DR. WISHART—Dear Sir: I had a very dreadful cough and sore throat for one year, and my whole system was fast giving way, and I was prostrated on my bed, with little hope of recovering. My disease baffled the power of all medicines, and in a short time I must have gone to my grave; but, thank God, my daughter-in-law would not rest until she went to your store, No. 10 North Second-st., and related my case to you, purchased one bottle of your Pine Tree Tar Cordial, and I commenced to use it, and in one week I was much better, and after using three bottles I am perfectly well—a wonder to all my friends, for it is all pronounced me past cure. Dr. WISHART—Sir: I had Bronchitis, Inflammation of the Lungs, Shortness of Breath and Palpitation of the Heart, in their worst forms. I had been treated by several of the most eminent physicians in Philadelphia, but they could not stop the rapid course of my disease, and I had despaired of ever being restored to health. I was truly on the verge of the grave. Your Pine Tree Tar Cordial was highly recommended to me by a friend. I tried it, and am thankful to say that after using four large and one small bottle I was restored to perfect health. Mr. WISHART—Sir: I return you my grateful thanks for the discovery you have made in making a medicine that will cure Inflammation of the Lungs and Liver Complaint. When I commenced to use your Pine Tree Tar Cordial I was, all to appearance, near my grave. I had been for a length of time spitting blood, and would at times vomit it. My physicians (for I employed two) pronounced me past cure; but my sister had used your Pine Tree Tar Cordial, which did her so much good that she prevailed on me, as a last resort, to try it; and, thank God, I commenced to use it. I have taken twelve bottles, and am perfectly cured, and am ready and willing that any person that is sick should call on me, and I will tell them what your Cordial has done for me. All my friends and neighbors were utterly astonished at my speedy return to health, for they had seen me vomit blood in a clotted state frequently. Publish my case, for I want every person that is suffering as I was to know of your invaluable medicine. Respectfully,

HONESDALE, Penn., June 24, 1859.

MR. WISHART—Dear Sir: I suffered excruciating agony for nearly two years, from neuralgia in the breast, passing up into the throat, face, head and shoulders, which caused great weakness and debility of the whole system. The pain was so intense from it as to be almost unendurable. So severe were my sufferings that I was induced to try every remedy recommended by my friends, but found no relief. I had one of the best physicians in constant attendance for more than a year, but he failed to relieve me. Fortunately, through a neighbor, who had been cured by the Tar Cordial of a severe affection of the lungs, with constant cough and general debility, (the being considered incurable.) I was induced to try a bottle, and found immediate relief from it use. I only used three bottles, which entirely cured me of the disease, and restored me to perfect health, free from all neuralgia, pain, &c. I have induced a number of persons to try your Tar Cordial for consumption, cough, sore throat, female complaints, &c., and all have been benefited.

Receive this testimonial with my best wishes for the success of your truly wonderful Tar Cordial in diminishing the ills which human nature is heir to.

I am most gratefully and truly yours,
ANNA S. GETSINGER.

You can refer to me at Honesdale, Penn., if you see proper.

THE U. S. SANITARY COMMISSION

Is in urgent want of funds. Its operations for the relief of the army were never more extensive and effective than now. Its depots and agents are at every military centre, from Washington to the Rio Grande. The money value of the supplies it issued to the Army of the Potomac during and immediately after Gettysburgh, exceeded seventy thousand dollars. Its issues at Chattanooga were on a like scale. Thousands of men reading "Special Relief" are daily cared for in its "Homes," its steamboats and wagon-trains follow our soldiers everywhere. Its other and equally important departments of work, Sanitary Inspection, Hospital Inspection, Hospital Directory, Transportation of the sick and wounded, &c., are in full operation. The cost of all this life-saving work is not less than forty-five thousand dollars per month. Its funds are now much reduced, and immediate contributions are requested to sustain it.

The Fairs that have been got up with such admirable and unprecedented energy and success at Chicago, Cincinnati and Boston, though reported everywhere as "for the benefit of the Sanitary Commission," have not as yet contributed a dollar to its treasury. The large sums thus raised have been received by the branches of the Commission at those cities respectively.

These branches apply them most usefully, mainly to the purchase of material to be made up into clothing, bedding, &c., and for like purposes. They thus relieve the treasury of the Commission from the necessity of purchasing supplies belonging to certain classes. But they render no aid to any other department of its work.

Those who desire fuller information as to the organization, method and cost of the Commission are referred to a statement of its system and of the application of its funds just published, copies of which may be had on application at the office of the United States Sanitary Commission, No. 823 Broadway, or at the bookstore of A. D. F. Randolph, No. 683 Broadway.

It is submitted to all humane and patriotic men that the Commission has saved, and is daily saving lives the country cannot afford to lose; what it is doing to economise the life and health of our soldiers is worth to the country ten times the money the Commission has received, and is of direct practical importance to every one interested in diminishing the cost and the duration of the war.

Contributions may be sent to the Treasurer, at No. 68 Wall-st., or No. 823 Broadway, New-York.
By order of the Standing Committee,
GEORGE T. STRONG,
Treasurer United States Sanitary Commission.

CHICAGO AND GREAT EASTERN
RAILWAY COMPANY,
FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS,
FOR $2,000,000.

SUBSCRIPTION BOOKS OPENED WITH Messrs. SCHUCHARDT & GEBHARD, Bankers, No. 21 Nassau-st., New-York.

The Chicago and Great Eastern Railway Company now offer for sale one million one hundred thousand dollars of their first mortgage bonds, in sums of one thousand dollars each, maturing in thirty years, bearing interest at the rate of Seven per cent. per annum, payable in the City of New-York, on the first days of April and October, in each year.

These bonds are secured by a first and only Mortgage on the property, income and franchises of the Railway Company, executed to Frederick Schuchardt and Henry Morgan, of the City of New-York, Trustees.

The remaining nine hundred thousand dollars of the Bonds are set apart and remain in the hands of the said Trustees, for the purpose of being exchanged for the indebtedness of the Chicago and Cincinnati Railroad Company, running from La Crosse to Logansport; this effected, the $2,000,000 will form a First and only Mortgage on a line of road 110 miles in length, extending from Chicago to Logansport, where it connects with the Cincinnati and Chicago Air-line Railroad, forming the shortest line by 40 miles, between Chicago and Cincinnati, and by 36 miles the shortest line between Louisville and Chicago.

It will also open, in connection with roads now in operation, entirely new and very direct lines from Chicago to New-York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and all Eastern cities. The distance between Chicago and New-York by this route being shorter than by either of the existing lines via Dunkirk or Buffalo.

The road is now under contract, and the most strenuous efforts are being made to have it open for traffic during the Summer of 1864.

The interest on the Bonds maturing during the progress of the work has been provided for, and will remain on deposit with the Bankers of the Company. PRIVATE DISEASES CURED IN THE shortest possible time, by DR WARD & CO., No. 50 Lispenard-st., near Broadway, without the use of Mercury, loss of time or change of diet. DR. WARD, from the hospitals of London, Paris, and Edinburgh, is the discoverer of the only certain and reliable remedies for diseases of a private character. In 28 years' practice he has cured more cases of Secret Diseases and Wrong Treatment than all others combined. I can and will cure you in less time and at less expense than any other can or will, and those who have been robbed of their money and health, call: it will take but little money and time to restore you. If you have been unfortunate, call at once. By his special experience in this much neglected branch of medical science, he is enabled to guarantee a cure in the most complicated cases. Recent cases of Gonorrhœa or Syphilis cured in a few days, without change of diet or hindrance from business. Secondary Syphilis—the last vestige eradicated without the use of Mercury. Involuntary emissions stopped in a short time. Sufferers from Impotency, or loss of sexual power, restored to full vigor in a few weeks. Permanently and speedily cured by a new treatment. Persons at a distance failing to receive prompt treatment elsewhere, may get a permanent cure effected by writing a full diagnosis of their case, addressed to Dr. WARD, No. 50 Lispenard-st., the only place. Call, send, or write for a circular.

SURE CURE—BY DR. POWERS, SUCCESSfully consulted with Dr. WARD, No. 50 Lispenard-st. Conducted on the plan of the Hospital des Veneriens, Paris, where those afflicted with any form of private disease can receive prompt treatment, without risk or exposure, viz. Syphilis, gonorrhœa, gleet, strictures, ulcers, tumors, cancers, secondary and constitutional syphilis, diseases of the kidneys, &c., &c. Thirty years of extensive practice, exclusively devoted to the treatment of those complaints enable us to effect cures in cases where others of less experience have failed. Dr. Powers' Essence of Life restores the vigor of youth in four weeks. This marvelous agent restores manhood to the most shattered constitution—physical disqualifications, impediments to marriage, thereby speedily cured. The men to consult, Drs. Ward and Powers, the champions and kings of venereal diseases, possessing the most certain, speedy and only effectual remedies in the world, guarantee a perfect cure, or no charge, in from one to three days. Established in 1840. Those who have used their preventives are never without. Send for a circular. To ladies—Dr. Powers' Periodical Drops are a safe and certain remedy for monthly irregularities. The above remedies sent by mail. The afflicted should read their circular. Postage free, on receipt of a stamp. Cures warranted.

DR. COBBETT, MEMBER OF THE N. Y. University, (Medical College,) and Royal College of Surgeons, London, has removed from No. 19 Duane-st. to his present very convenient suite of offices at No. 23 Centre-st., between Chambers and Reade sts., with a private entrance at No. 6 City Hall-place, where he can be consulted with the most honorable confidence on all diseases affecting the urinary organs; thirty years in his present specialty, (three of which have been at the Hospitals of this City,) enable him to guarantee a cure in every case undertaken, or make no charge. Strictures of the urethra, impotency, seminal weaknesses, &c., treated on the most scientific principles. N. B.—As a proof of Dr. C.'s qualifications, he would call special attention to his Diplomas, which can be seen in his office.

DR. COOPER, NO. 14 DUANE-ST., MAYBE confidently consulted on all diseases of a private nature. A practice of 30 years, devoted to the treatment and cure of Syphilis and diseases of a delicate nature, enables Dr. C. to make speedy and permanent cures, no matter of how long standing the case may be. Strictures of the urethra and seminal weakness, brought on by a secret habit, effectually cured. The victims of misplaced confidence, who have been misled by quack advertisements, can call on Dr. C. with the certainty of being radically cured. N. B.—Dr. C. is a qualified physician and surgeon, and a member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of New-York.

DR. WARD'S MAGICAL INVIGORATORS, IN the form of Pills, will, in fifteen minutes after being taken, make the recipient as vigorous as it nature had never been retarded or debilitated. To the unmarried or single, in every physical exigency, this unrivaled medicine is earnestly recommended as a complete restorative of the nervous system where manhood has been impaired Procured of Dr. WARD, No. 50 Lispenard-st., between Broadway and Church-st. "Miss Simons has a most pleasing soprano voice; she has considerable power; she sings with great expression, her countenance lighting up, showing that the artiste has feeling and sentiment. Her execution is really fine, and her voice shows that it has been carefully cultivated."—New-York Herald.

"This young lady completely surprised and entranced her listeners. It is no exaggeration to say that her voice is one of the finest and best trained sopranos that we have heard among American ladies. She employs it with a skill and taste rarely looked for in professional artistes of long standing, and almost inconceivable in a debutante."—New-York Times.

"Miss Simons' debut was the most successful one we ever witnessed. She must be set down as an artist of rare accomplishment. She appeared with credit to herself and to her master Signor Muzio, who has reason indeed to be proud of his pupil."—Express.

GERMAN AMERICA

THE ITALIAN IRON-CLAD RE D'ITALIA.

THE VESSEL ASHORE AT LONG BRANCH.

THE LIVES OF THREE HUNDRED GUESTS IN PERIL

ALL SAFE---NO DAMAGE TO THE SHIP.

The Re d'Italia, the new Italian iron-clad recently launched at W. H. Webb's shipyard, met with an accident yesterday morning about 1 o'clock, which may prove disastrous to the vessel. The circumstances of the mishap are briefly as follows. Saturday afternoon the Re d'Italia left her dock in Hoboken, having on board a large number of invited guests, for the purpose of a trial trip. It was thought at the time the vessel would steam but a few miles down the Bay and return before nightfall. It appears, however, the Captain of the ship was disposed to give his visitors something of a voyage, and after taking on board a coast pilot steered for Barnegat light. Nothing more was heard of the vessel until the arrival of the dispatch, early yesterday morning, announcing the accident that befell her. It seems everything had gone on pleasantly during the voyage up to the time when a question was raised between the officers of the ship, the pilot and some of the seafaring guests concerning the whereabouts of the vessel. The Captain, believing he understood the coast, gave orders for soundings, which were improperly reported to him. About 1 o'clock, while the convivialities incident to trial trips had not been entirely dispensed with, the ship suddenly grounded. A scene of considerable confusion followed. Efforts were made to relieve the vessel and get her off, but without avail. In this connection, it should be stated that previous to the stranding of the ship one of her engines became disabled, and for some time she was propelled by one engine only, assisted by her sails. These circumstances may be considered fortunate for the vessel and all on board, for, had she been going at full speed the time she struck, the most disastrous consequences might have followed. As soon as it became apparent that the ship could not be got off without assistance signal guns were fired, which brought to the beach most of the citizens of Fresh Pond, a small place about two miles north of the main hotels on Long Branch. An underwriter's agent, who live out a short distance from the spot where the vessel stranded, made his appearance soon after the signal-guns were fired, and at once dispatched a team to the Government house at Station No. 3 to procure a surf-boat. In the meantime, those on board the Re d'Italia were made acquainted with their exact locality and the preparations that were being made for their safety. Shortly before 3 o'clock the surf-boat arrived, when a difficulty arose who should man it. This was soon settled by the volunteering of five old surfmen named CHAS. H. VALENTINE, BORDEN WEST, ABRAHAM LIPPINCOTT, ELIJAH DISBROW and WILLIAM MAIHAN. The first desperate attempt of these brave men to reach the ship failed. As soon as their boat was fairly afloat, it was struck by a wave and sent whirling back to the shore. The surfmen finding that it was impossible to reach the vessel from a point immediately opposite her, took their boat a considerable distance further south, and again launched it. This time they were successful, and after a half hour's hard pulling reached the vessel. They did not attempt to board her, but at once offered their services for the rescue of the passengers. Previous to the arrival of the boat, however, it had been ascertained by the wrecked pleasure party that they were comparatively safe, and learning they were off Wardell's Beach, stuck fast in the sand, in a strong vessel, they all, except an officer bearing dispatches to the Italian Consul and two other gentlemen, concluded to remain on board until morning. The surfmen, accordingly after finding no further assistance was required, pulled their boat to the shore, which they did not reach until nearly midnight. The citizens on Wardell's Beach showed a commendable disposition to render assistance, should any be needed. They were constantly on the alert, doing everything that would have been required of them had the vessel proved a total wreck. Conspicuous among the number who were the most assiduous in their endeavors to launch the surf-boat, and who rendered other valuable aid were the brothers HERBERT and EDWARD WARDELL.

At present the Re d'Italia lays "hard aground," and is gradually settling in the sand. Those on board of the ship are in good spirits, and will probably all be

If the weather continues favorable, and westerly winds prevail, no damage will be done to the vessel for some time. The Coast Wrecking Company left yesterday, to the scene of the disaster, all necessary appliances furnished by them in their business for the relief of wrecked vessels. Three steam-tugs have also gone, and Collector BARNEY has dispatched a revenue-cutter to lend additional aid. The Italian Consul has been tendered the assistance of several Government vessels now lying at the Navy-yard. Hence, there will be no lack of motive-power to set the stranded ship once more afloat.

DESCRIPTION OF THE VESSEL.

The Re d'Italia is of the following dimensions: Length, 258 feet; breadth of beam, 55 feet; depth of hold, 33 feet. She is a screw propeller, bark-rigged, 5,000 tons burden; is iron-clad, with plates 4½ inches thick, and is pierced for 44 guns, and was built at a cost, to the Italian Government of $1,500,000.

ADDITIONAL PARTICULARS.

LONG BRANCH, Tuesday, Dec. 29.

The Italia lays in the same position, with four tugs and a lighter alongside. The sea has gone down, and the prospects are favorable that she will get off. We learn that the Coast Wrecking Company has dispatched the schooner Johnson, with large cables and heavy anchors, and a strong force of men, with the powerful steamtug Boardman, the whole under the immediate charge of Capt. WILLIAM MERRITT, Underwriters' Agent, to the assistance of the Italia.

Chief Engineer FARRAR, Mr. HOLMES, of the Novelty Works, and Mr. FORD, of the press, have come ashore from the Italia. All hands on board are well and in good spirits. The ship is fast on the beach, but has made no water yet. The steamer Magnolia arrived to-day and vainly endeavored to pull her off. The beach is filled with villagers and spectators.

A meeting took place in the cabin of the frigate to-day, and the following statement was made by the Captain:

"I went to the officer of the deck at 8 P. M. on the night of the disaster as follows: 'Any light you see, advise me immediately; if there is wind, advise me; if the engine can work, advise me; make soundings every hour; if you have twenty-five fathoms, advise me; if you have fifteen fathoms, advise me.' The officer reported 20 fathoms at 9½ o'clock; at 10 o'clock, 18 fathoms; at 12 o'clock, 15 fathoms. I then went on deck, and there were five men besides myself and Capt. COMSTOCK watching for the lightship. I said I would steer two hours N.W. to fall in with her. Capt. COMSTOCK said that would be impossible, and told me to steer half an hour toward the shore and half an hour toward the sea. This I did, and sounded the bottom, finding 7 fathoms. In an instant we struck, and I saw that we were on shore. I thought we were twenty miles off shore, but Capt. COMSTOCK said we were only fifteen. The officer of the deck pointed out to me a white streak, which turned out to be sand."

Capt COMSTOCK said: "I was in the engine room at twenty minutes to 1 o'clock. I heard a crash and went at once on deck. The Captain asked me what was that? and I told him that it was sand and that we were ashore."

Fears are entertained that the ship cannot be got off for some days. No casualties whatever have occurred. Those on board remained there at their own request. A vote of thanks has been presented to the following wreckers for their gallant conduct: C. H. Valentine, W. C. Manahan, Robert Potter, Ben West, Abraham Lippincott, and Garret White.

This ship had been tried at the top of her speed with great satisfaction to all on board. During the night of the 28th, at 11:45, while going at the rate of seven knots, with one engine working, the other having become disarranged, she struck on Wardle's Beach, within 200 yards of the main land, four miles north of the Tavern Houses, and fifteen miles south of Sandy Hook. The lead had just been cast, but the wrong soundings had been called. Some of her guns have been thrown overboard to lighten her.

The Underwriters have sent steamers and 20-inch cables to her, and it is confidently hoped she will come off soon, as she went on at low water. There are conflicting reports as to whether there was any insurance on her, and how much. She was in charge of her own officers, and had a pilot on board.

The Morris and Essex Railroad.

DETENTIONS AND ACCIDENTS.

There are no more unfortunate travelers, now-a-days, than those who reside in New-Jersey and are compelled to depend on the Morris and Essex Railroad to reach this City. Since its contract with the New-Jersey Railroad expired, and it commenced running over the Hoboken extension, irregularity has been the rule, and regularity the exception. Trains run apparently to suit the convenience of the conductors, and the time-tables which were issued two or three months ago have probably been consigned to the archives of the New-Jersey Historical Society as interesting relics of the past. Now and then the tedium of delay is broken in upon by some hair-breadth escape from a startling disaster, such as that which occurred on the bridge over the Passaic a few days ago, when three hundred passengers were nearly plunged into the river by the partial giving way of the draw; but these little excitements are not so agreeable that their repetition is called for. All kinds of hypotheses are urged to account for this chronic mismanagement. Some say that the necessity of running upon a single track between Newark and Hoboken is the cause of all the delays and accidents; others that the Railroad Company has not enough rolling stock to accommodate the travel which has been suddenly thrown upon its hands, and that in due time the evil will be remedied by the addition of sundry mythical locomotives. Others still assert that a little energy and attention to business on the part of those nominally charged with the management of the road would go far to set matters straight, and those who persistently assert their belief in the existence of a superintendent, for no individual exercising the prerogatives of that officer is ever to be found when his presence is needed, say that his hands are so tied by the Directors that he is virtually powerless to apply the obvious remedies. Amid all these conjectures one thing is certain—that complaints enough can be heard in the course of a single trip over the Road in question to disturb the slumbers of all those who are justly responsible for so much mismanagement, if each individual concerned only appropriated his own share. Unless a change is speedily made, real estate in that section of New-Jersey which has depended upon this Road will rapidly depreciate, and then, perhaps, the stockholders will begin to institute investigations into the mismanagement of their property. Such a movement would be most opportune, for the present Directors evidently labor under the impression that they are the masters of the public, and not its servants.

THIRTY-FIVE BODIES UNGRAVED.

Arrival of Capt. M. L. Filkins—The Gallant Dead of the One Hundred and Seventy-seventh.

On Saturday MORGAN L. FILKINS, of Albany, Captain in the One Hundred and Seventy-seventh (Albany) New-York Volunteers, (Member of Assembly elect,) arrived in this City from New-Orleans, on the Mississippi, having in his charge nineteen of the bodies of members of the regiment who had fallen before Port Hudson, or died in the Department of the Gulf from illness. Sixteen bodies he had sent in advance on the Merrimac, which arrived earlier last week, and they were at once forwarded to Albany.

Some time after the return of the regiment to Albany, the friends of the dead united in an urgent request to Capt. FILKINS to revisit the scenes of their service and recover the bodies. He finally assented without "fee or reward," and on the 16th November left this port, arriving in New-Orleans on the 29th. At once he set to work on his painful and embarrassing duty, receiving from the officers of the Department of the Gulf all assistance that was in their power. Before leaving Albany he had metallic coffins made, and transportation of these from New-Orleans was given free of charge.

Capt. FILKINS first visited, for the purposes of disinterment, Baton Rouge, where a number of the regiment had died from illness and from wounds. Here he disinterred six bodies—those of F. Platto, J. Guardenier, M. Daly, H. C. Mosher, J. W. Keisler and S. B. Sheperd (Adjutant of the Ninety-first.)

He then proceeded to Port Hudson, where this regiment, Col. AINSWORTH, of Albany, in command, had been engaged forty-eight days and nights in the siege. Here he visited the battle-field, and disinterred ten bodies buried on the field, and, as they were outside of the lines, he had to expedite matters, because of the incessant danger from the guerrillas hovering around. The bodies were those of Lieut. ROSCHE, EUGENE BRONE, J. O. LEISENAW, J. D. WOOD, W. H. VANDENBURGH, A. M. CARHART, S. G. LOOMIS, A. S. BILLSON, T. L. HARTNESS, JOEL WILSON.

From here he returned to Bonnet Carrie, and visited the Brigade Burying-Ground, disinterring seventeen bodies—those of C. H. Frederrich, J. C. Bridgman, H. L. Chipman, A. Haswell, Wm. Crounse, L. S. Hermance, F. C. Comstock, W. H. Lade, T. F. Ray, A. Vandenburgh, Wm. Ingraham, P. C. Clute, M. Wood, P. M. Stalker, W. H. Coons, G. Bailey, W. H. Barlow, G. W. Kilbourn.

On returning to New-Orleans the body of J. MCCLASKEY, Ninety-first regiment, who had died in hospital, was also disinterred.

All the bodies were placed in metallic cases and transported to this City in the best condition possible. Capt. FILKINS had comparatively but little trouble in discovering the graves. He had been on the ground and witnessed most of the burials. At all the places head-boards had been placed bearing the names, except at Bonnet Carrie and Port Hudson. Here he knew that the body of W. H. BARLOW had been buried, and buried alongside a man named ZULMAN; he found the grave of the latter, marked, opened the adjoining grave, and recognized by the long dark hair the remains of BARLOW.

At the latter place the Captain had to open four graves ere he found one containing the body of A. S. BILLSON. On opening the last, he was enabled to recognize it as the right one by the rubber overcoat which was wrapped around the head of deceased, and which bore his name. The body was placed in three-cracker-boxes—the interlering ends of each being broken out.

The bodies were all, of course, shockingly decomposed, and the work of disinterment was one of horror. Capt. FILKINS is a man who shrinks from no duty, and he faithfully fulfilled this terrible one. His aids were contrabands, who repeatedly shrank from the work. Many of the bodies were uncoffined; others were in rough boards, a few in coffins, others in cracker-boxes, and one in a gun-box. After opening the grave, the condition of the bodies was such, especially at Bonnet Carrie, where the graves filled with water that canvas had to be slipped under them, and they carefully raised on it, in order that they should not fall to pieces! Capt. FILKINS nobly stood the ordeal. He opened every coffin and every box; he cut from twenty-eight of the dead locks of hair for the relatives, and then closed to all eyes the remains. All were buried in their clothes, and were wrapped in the soldier's shroud, their blankets.

At Port Hudson Capt. FILKINS disinterred ten bodies, and coffined them in two days. At Bonnet Carrie he did the same with eighteen bodies in one day. At Baton Rouge he did the same with six bodies in a little over one day. When all the formalities and red tape are taken into consideration, to say nothing of the physical labor, for often had he to open the graves himself, and the horrors, this certainly exhibits extraordinary zeal and energy.

The friends of the deceased authorized to Capt. FILKINS an expenditure of $300 per day. He returns with them to Albany at a cost to the relatives of $50 each. This is pretty conclusive evidence that a generous heart and noble impulses were in the work, and that a painful duty, reluctantly undertaken, was truly a labor of love.

Of his regiment, which did much duty and won a proud name, some ninety yet lie on the banks of the Mississippi.

The bodies forwarded last week were placed in the cemetery built at Albany, to await the arrival of the others. They went up by the Hudson River Railroad, which charged $3 10 for each, allowing no deduction from passenger fare. The nineteen others went up yesterday afternoon by the Harlem Railroad, which not only generously forwarded them for nothing, by direction of Superintendent BUECHARD, but gave free passage to those in whose charge they were.

There will be a solemn scene in Albany when these thirty-five bodies of the devoted and the dead are consigned to the tomb. No city better appreciates such a sacrifice—none could so mourn the loss. It is the intention there to have a funeral pageant, and the occasion will be one of unprecedented significance and solemnity.

DICKENS AND DARLEY.

MESSRS. SHELDON & COMPANY,
No. 335 Broadway, New-York,
HAVE NOW READY:
HOLIDAY EDITION
DICKENS' CHRISTMAS BOOKS,
With choice illustrations by DARLEY, and an illuminated title-page by HOWS, printed on toned paper by Houghton, of the "Riverside Press," and neatly bound by Matthews.

CONTENTS:
A CHRISTMAS CAROL.
THE CHIMES.
THE CRICKET ON THE HEARTH.
THE BATTLE OF LIFE,
THE HAUNTED MAN.
A CHRISTMAS TREE.

"Of the typographical appearance of the work it is only necessary to say that it is from Houghton's Press, Riverside, printed on tinted paper. The illustrations are from Darley's unequaled pencil. A Christmas Carol, The Chimes, The Cricket on the Hearth, The Battle of Life, The Haunted Man and a Christmas Tree, are the tales that are included in the volume, and of them and their merits it is useless to speak. There is a short preface from Dickens' own pen, which nobody should neglect to read, and which sets forth abundantly the purpose of his stories. Altogether, this book will make a most appropriate present for the coming Christmas Holidays."—Boston Traveller.
